Economist Tells Manufacturers '60 Abundance Promise Will Do Trick

New York —(AP)—The abundant economy promised for the '60s may finally throttle the post war price inflation, a noted economist told one of the 13 divisions of the American Paper and Pulp association holding its 83rd convention here.

Dexter M. Keezer, director of McGraw-Hill Publishing company's department of economics, addressed the Writing Paper Manufacturers association.

W. J. Servotte, president of Bay West Paper company, Green Bay, told the Tissue association, Inc., the production of paper towels will outpace the growth rate of the rest of the industry.

Paper Napkins News

L. R. Watson, executive vice president of Tuttle Press company, Appleton, gave the same division the good news that Emily Post had raised her objection to paper napkins and the dictum should help the sale of that product.

Theodore M. Gilbert, president of the Gilbert Paper company, Menasha, forecast at the meeting that prices on high quality paper will go up before long.

Economist Keezer explained, "The basic cause of inflation is scarcity. Our prospect is one of plenty. It is

Girl Burned, Hurt When Hit by Snowball 'Bomb'

Neenah — A Neenah High student, Judy Breitrick, 16, 217 Lennox street, received serious cuts on the back of her neck, singed hair and a badly burned sweater and coat when struck Monday noon by a snowball which contained what police called a "cherry bomb."

A "cherry bomb" is a round, fused explosive more powerful than a firecracker. Its red color and green fuse give it the appearance of a cherry.

A 17-year-old boy admitted to police taking the "bomb," packing it into a snowball, lighting the fuse and throwing it. Disorderly conduct charges against him are being held open until the full amount of injury to the girl and the cost of the damages are learned.

The girl, who was on her way to the high school, received first aid treatment at the school and was taken to a physician's office for further treatment.

Air Force Manual on Dogs and Drinks Cost $5,572 to Produce

Washington —(AP)—That air force manual that told how to wash an officer's dog cost $5,572.71 to produce.

The air force also said a master sergeant writer and three civilians worked on it—the sergeant for 180 days, a typist 30 days and an illustrator and editor 10 days each.

The manual, among other information for officers' aides, had rules for mixing drinks, shining shoes and making beds. It has been withdrawn. Nevertheless the air force defended it in the report it submitted today to a house appropriations subcommittee.

It said information from the manual had been "taken out of context" and misconstrued.

Peace, Prosperity Pledged In 'Declaration of Brasilia'

Ike, Brazilian President Issue Document as U.S. Chief Arrives for Visit

Brasilia, Brazil —(AP)— Chief executives of the two biggest nations in the Americas today pledged their joint determination to help develop the hemisphere materially and morally with the goal of "greater prosperity and harmony for all."

President Eisenhower and President Juscelino Kubitschek of Brazil, in a "Declaration of Brasilia," expressed confidence in the success of a hemispheric crusade for economic development. At the same time they asserted their support of "the fight against racial discrimination" and their belief in freedom of thought and religion.

"Economic development cannot be dissociated from the preservation of peace and democratic rights," they declared.

Drafted in Advance

The "Declaration of Brasilia" was drafted in advance in exchanges between the two presidents and their foreign affairs departments. It was made public today just an hour before Eisenhower was due here on his 10-day South American tour.

This is the rainy season in Brasilia, but the weather was cool and comfortable as the president's 707 jet touched down after a 5½ hour flight covering 2,700 miles.

The surging crowd broke through police lines as the plane was taxiing up the runway. Almost all the 70,000 population, mostly engaged in construction work, turned out. Fire trucks were moved in to hold back the crowd. Troops also joined the police in keeping the way clear.

Tomorrow Eisenhower is to get his major Brazilian reception in Rio de Janeiro, the old capital.

The two presidents' declaration was made public.

Ten Burn to Death in Two Fires in St. Louis, Omaha

3 Firemen Killed When Roof Falls

St. Louis —(AP)— The interior of a burning 3-story brick building in downtown St. Louis collapsed with a roar last night, killing three firemen.

Ten other firemen were injured in the blaze, one seriously.

Two of the victims, trapped under debris, lived for some time after the upper floors fell in. Some 25 other firemen worked desperately to rescue them. But both were dead when extricated, the last one six hours after they were trapped.

During the futile rescue operation, a Catholic priest inched his way through the smoldering wreckage to administer last rites.

A city hospital physician crawled through the debris to give medication to ease their pain.

The Dead
Dead were Fire Captains Arthur Fette, 62, and Clinton Lorbert, 36, and Pvt. William Grieser (cq), 36.

Fette's body was recovered soon after he was killed. Lorbert and Grieser's moans could be heard as firemen worked to reach them.

Lorbert's body was the last to be recovered.

The owner and a tenant of the building were booked suspected of arson, but police said several hours later it was possible neither had any knowledge of how the fire started.

They were Angelo Kolocotronis, 51, owner of the building and Edward Abschal, 44, operator of a salvage business who used the two upper floors.

Israel Denies Massing Troops

Jerusalem —(AP)— Israel has denied charges by President Nasser that she is mobilizing and massing troops on Syria's frontier.

Rejecting as "utter nonsense" the claim by the United Arab Republic president, an Israeli military spokesman declared yesterday that life in Israel is "proceeding normally and peacefully."

There have been no border incidents for several days, he added.

Nasser made the charge yesterday at a rally in Damascus and recalled a statement by U. N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld that the middle east situation is worsening.

Aged Victims Trapped in Rooming Home

Omaha —(AP)— Seven persons died today in a fire in a downtown rooming house occupied mostly by old age pensioners.

Four persons were injured. One, 58-year-old Charles Battles, was in serious condition with burns over 45 to 55 percent of his body. Battles was a ball of fire when he leaped from a second story window to icy ground below.

There were 35 persons in the building including the landlady, Mrs. Clara M. Gillen, 63. Her son, James, said three-quarters of the residents were pensioners.

Frigid Weather
The fire was discovered about 1:25 a.m. in the St. James rooming house which occupies the upper two floors of a 3-story brick building. The location is in an area between the retail and wholesale business district.

Firemen fought the flames in 7-degree temperatures that froze water from the hoses as it splashed against the building and left streets covered with ice or slush.

Cause of the fire was not immediately determined.

Reds Will Insist West Leave Berlin

Washington —(AP)— Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev is reported to have warned he will insist the western allies leave West Berlin — regardless of any concession they may offer to Russia's views on disarmament.

Khrushchev is understood to have emphasized his view strongly to Italian President Giovanni Gronchi during their talks in Moscow nearly three weeks ago.

Not Cowed
The Italian government has given its main allies a report on the Gronchi-Khrushchev conversations, which were climaxed by a public row between them at a Moscow reception.

Gronchi and his advisers were not cowed by Khrushchev's harsh language. At a Berlin proposals by giving him farewell diplomatic reception, concessions on disarmament.

Lawmen Called Off

Missing Millionaire's Wife Says 'We're Ready to Pay'

Golden, Colo. —(AP)— The wife of missing millionaire Adolph Coors III broke a week of silence about his disappearance last night with the statement:

"We are ready to pay for my husband's safe return."

Two Weeks

Coors, missing two weeks today when his station wagon was found on a dirt road he took from home to his office, was kidnapped in the opinion of his father and Sheriff Arthur Vermuth.

For the past week there was no comment from the family nor law enforcement agents. Mrs. Coors' statement, issued through the Coors brewery public relations counsel, said:

"My family and I are anxiously awaiting word from my husband 'Ad'. I have asked all law enforcement authorities to withdraw from active participation in this case, which they have done. By this action we are giving assurance that no effort will be made to interfere with attempts to communicate with us.

"We are ready to pay for my husband's safe return."

No Contact?

"I thank the people, the press, television and radio for the kindness and understanding they have shown during the past several days."

While the question of whether a contact had been made had received official "no comments" from all officers, the statement of Mrs. Coors indicated there has been none.

Pollution Bill Vetoed; Cites Federal Costs

Ike Says State, Local Government Should Foot Bill

Washington —(AP)— President Eisenhower vetoed a $900 million water pollution control bill today on the ground that state and local governments rather than the federal government should foot most of the bill.

"Because water pollution is a uniquely local blight," Eisenhower said in a message to the house, "primary responsibility for solving the problem lies not with the federal government but rather must be assumed and exercised as it has been by state and local governments. This being so, the defects of H. R. 3610 (the vetoed bill) are apparent."

"By holding forth the promise of a large scale program of long-term federal support, it would tempt municipalities to delay essential water pollution abatement efforts while they waited for federal funds."

Sure of Veto
House leaders, sure the veto would come, already have laid plans to attempt to override it, perhaps Thursday. They aren't optimistic about the prospects, however.

But they do figure some Republicans may be hurt in the November election if they

Cuba Ready to Talk With U. S. On Differences

Havana —(AP)— Fidel Castro's government says it is ready to negotiate its differences with the United States but warns against any Washington action harmful to the Cuban economy.

Foreign Minister Raul Roa handed a note to U. S. charge d'affaires Daniel Braddock yesterday announcing that Cuba would appoint a commission to open talks in Washington at a date convenient to both countries.

The note expressed "confidence this decision will be justly appreciated by the North American government inasmuch as it is directed to the examination . . . of questions that have lately affected traditional relations between Cuba and the United States."

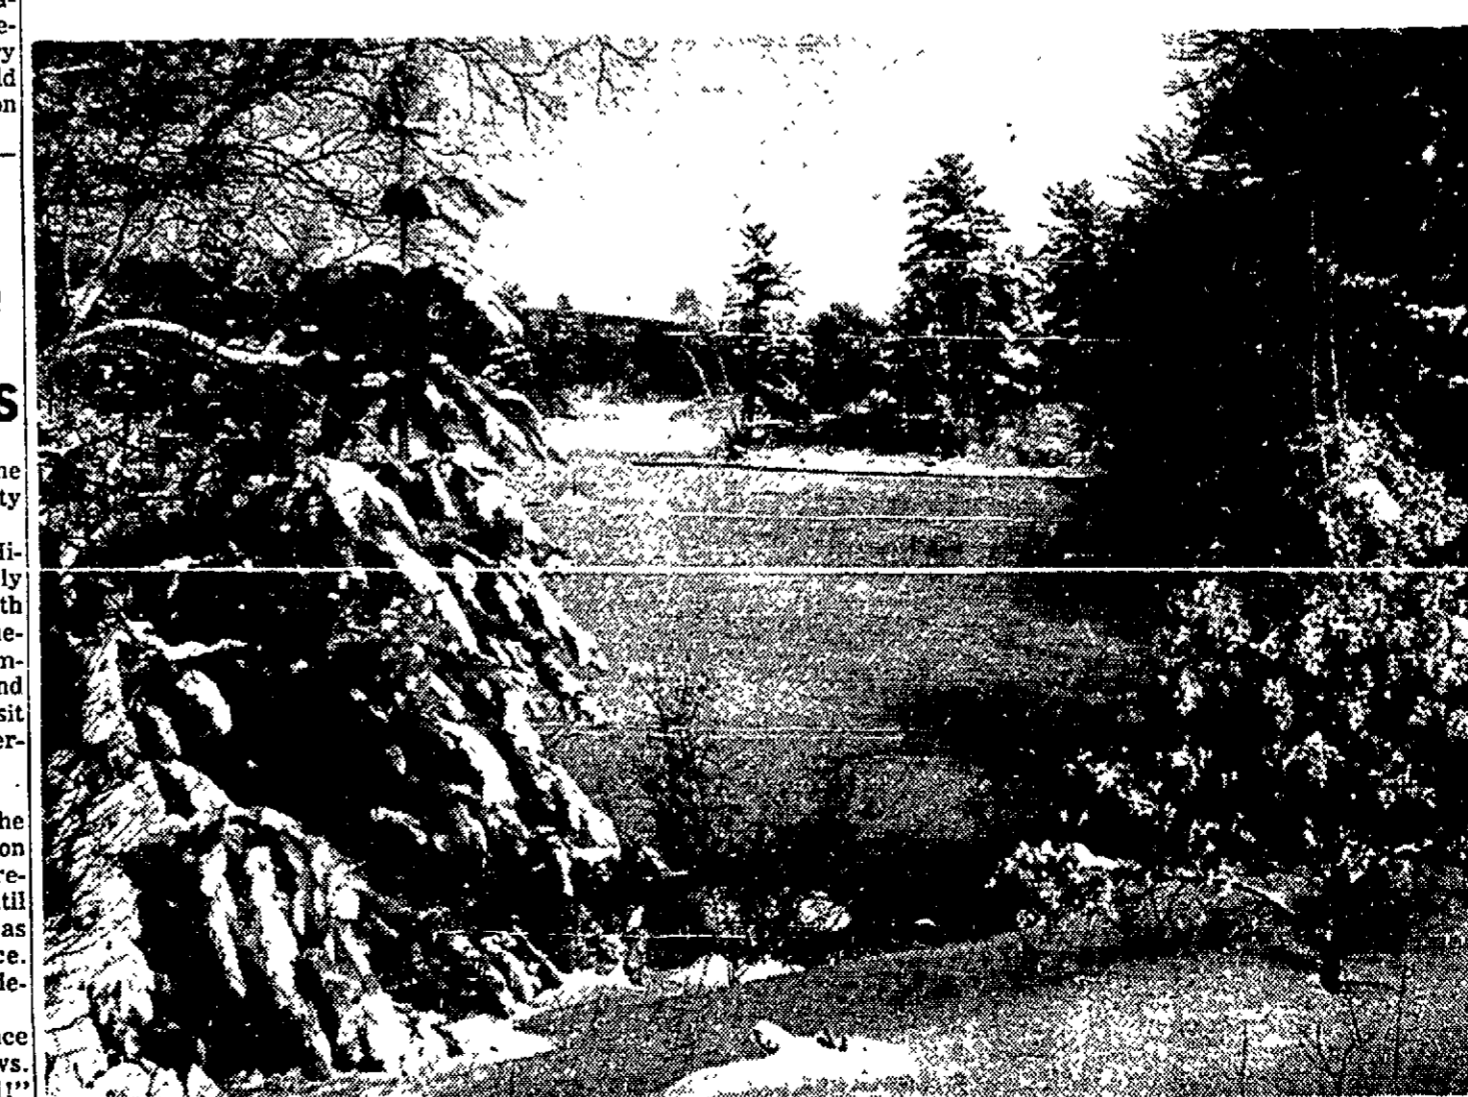

But the note indicated that negotiations would fall through if the U. S. government or congress took steps Cuba might consider harmful to its economy.

Civil Rights Debate Delay Seen Likely

Sen. Dirksen Expected to Answer Charges About Nation's Defenses and 'Missile Gap'

Washington — (AP) — A fresh battle over the state of the nation's defenses seemed likely today to delay the senate's languishing debate over civil rights legislation.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois had priority after the transaction of routine business for an answer to charges made last Friday by Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo).

Symington, a likely but unannounced candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, charged that the Eisenhower administration is misleading the American people on facts about Soviet missiles and military strength.

Although Republicans fought back at the time, Dirksen's reply seemed likely to put something of an official GOP stamp on the contention that Democrats are seeking political advantage in the argument over what they call the missile gap.

Sen. Leverett Saltonstall (R-Mass) took this line in ac-

Nixon in Pennsylvania Primary Vote

Tries to Show He Has United GOP Party Support

Washington — (AP) — Vice President Richard M. Nixon is countering Democratic attempts to tag him as a GOP old guardsmen with efforts to show he has united Republican party support.

As a part of this strategy, Nixon's name is scheduled to go into the April 26 Pennsylvania primary today as an unopposed candidate for the Republican presidential nomination.

Sen. Hugh Scott (R-Pa) announced Monday that petitions to put Nixon's name on the ballot are being filed with Nixon's knowledge. There was a bare possibility that Nixon might say "no" at the last moment but his approval was expected.

Rep. William E. Miller (R-NY), chairman of the National Republican Congressional committee, took a similar rap at the Democrats. "I'm getting a little sick," he said, "of the perennial political pessimists who are willing to sell America short to further their own political careers."

"The record shows," he added in a statement, "that the Symingtons, the Humphreys, the Johnsons and other Democrats — some already eyeing the White House two years ago — were the loudest forecasters of economic doom and the noisiest clamorers for vast federal spending programs and make-work projects."

"They were wrong about the depression and they're wrong about our military might."

Jurors, Amid Tamper Rumors, To Hear Final Finch Points

Los Angeles — (AP) — Jurors in the Finch murder trial, amid reports of a plot to tamper with them, today begin hearing final arguments in the complex case.

The task at hand for the opposing attorneys: trying to sum up 160,000 words of often-sensational testimony; making the most of their last chance to stress important points.

Seven women and five men will be weighing their words, trying to decide — did Dr. R. Bernard Finch and his shape- plan and carry out the murder of the doctor's wife? Or was Barbara Jean Finch's gunshot death last summer a tragic accident, as the defense claims?

Dr. Finch, 42, and Miss Tregoff, 23, his former secretary, are charged with murder and conspiracy. Superior Judge Walter R. Evans, in the first order of business today, is to rule on defense motions for dismissal or advised verdicts of acquittal on all counts.

The court will also inform the opposing attorneys exactly what instructions will be given the jury as to possible verdicts.

Dist. Atty. William B. McKesson conceded Monday that he'd heard rumors of someone attempting to approach a juror. And Judge Evans said this possibility figured in his decision to order the panel locked up in a hotel over the long Washington's birthday weekend.

But McKesson said he didn't have enough information to start an investigation. Judge Evans added that there was nothing to implicate the defense in any way.

One report said the alleged tamper plot was linked to gambling elements and that large sums of money were available. Big sums are said to have been wagered on the trial's outcome, also pools and handicaps clocking the time the jurors will deliberate.

Profiteering on Sick Denied by Drug Makers

Pharmaceutical Group's President Says Medicines Bargain for Buying Public

Washington — (AP) — Organized drug manufacturers denied vigorously today their industry is profiteering against the sick, or dealing in monopolistic practices.

Dr. Austin Smith of Washington, president of the Pharmaceutical Manufacturers association, contended instead that drugs and medicines are "the real bargain" for the buying public today. His testimony was prepared for renewed hearings by the senate antitrust and monopoly subcommittee.

At earlier hearings, the subcommittee has heard testimony that some big manufacturers have received markups as big as several thousand per cent on medicines sold to patients for up to 50 cents a dose.

Without specifically mentioning details of that testimony, Smith contended that singling out the price of one of many products of a firm could mislead the public.

Vigorously defending medicine prices as reasonable, he said.

"Americans would be paying a billion dollars a year more for drugs if the price of medicine in the last few years had gone up only as much as the total cost of living."

Doing Good Job He said drug prices rose 3 per cent in the last 10 years.

Seize Waupun Youth Following Gunfire Exchange

Waupun — (AP) — A 16-year-old Waupun youth who brandished a knife in holding up a farmer was taken into custody early today after an exchange of gunfire with police officers at a roadblock.

Undersheriff Orrie Uttech of Juneau county said the boy got into a fight with companions shortly before midnight and drove about three miles into the country. He stopped at a farm and, armed with a knife, forced a farmer to give him a .22 caliber rifle. The youth left his own car at the farm and drove toward Waupun on Highway 26 in the farmer's car.

A roadblock of city and county officers met the boy at the city limits. He fired one shot which hit a squad car. Officers fired back four times and the boy surrendered. Nobody was injured.

The boy was taken to the county jail at Juneau.

White House Gives No Sign On Wage Hike

Sen. Dirksen Will Continue to Oppose Minimum Proposal

Washington — (AP) — Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen (R-Ill.) said today the White House has given him no sign it now favors an increase in the $1 an hour minimum wage.

Dirksen told a newsman that, lacking such word, he intends to continue to oppose any such boost in the senate labor committee.

The committee has scheduled another closed-door meeting on the legislation today but is not expected to finish work on a bill without several additional sessions.

Could Increase Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell sent a report to congress last week which was widely interpreted as meaning the administration would go along with an increase in the wage floor to $1.10 or $1.15 an hour.

Mitchell said it was his view that a modest increase could be made in the $1 figure without curtailing employment or earnings in low-wage industries.

The secretary is to testify next month on minimum wage legislation before a house labor subcommittee.

Changed Mind Dirksen said in the interview he knew Mitchell's feelings in the matter but added that nothing had been said at the White House to indicate "the big boss"—President Eisenhower—had changed his mind.

Last year the administration opposed an increase in the minimum wage as inflationary; Dirksen said he considered this argument still valid.

The senate committee is considering a bill approved last summer by its labor subcommittee which would raise the minimum to $1.25 for most workers covered by the law and also extend coverage to an additional 10,731,000 employees.

34 Negroes Arrested Over Lunch Counter Segregation Dispute

Deny Bandleader Duke Ellington Service at Baltimore Restaurant

Richmond, Va. — (AP) — A spreading revolt by southern Negroes against lunch counter segregation brought the arrest of 34 Negro demonstrators here Monday. New "sitdowns" seemed in prospect today.

Negro Bandleader Duke Ellington, after playing a concert at Johns Hopkins university in Baltimore, went with friends Monday night to a restaurant that had refused to serve Negroes twice during the afternoon.

The restaurant refused to serve Ellington and closed early. A group of Hopkins students gathered outside during the incident.

Participants in the protest demonstration at one of Richmond's largest department stores said they were neither surprised nor discouraged at the arrests — "We knew it might happen . . . it really didn't matter."

Trespassing Charges The 34 Negroes were taken into custody and booked on charges of trespassing when they refused a management request to leave the vicinity of two eating places in Thalhimer's department store reserved for white people. All were released on $50 bond.

The arrests were the second largest in the south since Negroes — many of them university students — began sit-downs at "white only" lunch counters. Forty-three Negro students had been arrested earlier in Raleigh, N. C., as they stood on a privately owned sidewalk in a shopping center.

Eight separate sitdowns — in Richmond, Hampton, Norfolk and Newport News — were reported in Virginia Monday. In addition, there were sit-downs in four stores at Chattanooga, Tenn., besides the one in Baltimore.

With one exception, the Negroes were denied service. The exception was at a Local Roads Money Demands Face Next Legislative Session

6-Year Classification Study In Final Recommendation Stages

BY JOHN WYNGAARD
Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison—The next legislature will be asked to take up again the money needs of the vast network of local streets and rural roads of Wisconsin. A progress report of a legislative interim committee preparing a road inventory and road classification blueprint, disclosed here yesterday, apparently was the opening signal of a campaign for new financing for much of the 80,000-mile local system. The classification study has been underway for more than six years, and is evidently nearing the stage of concrete conclusions.

As Assemblyman Robert Humber of West Allis, committee chairman and deputy speaker of the state assembly put it: "The next legislature will expect to see our job done. We must get the material in shape for action."

A highlight of the preliminary report was the finding that nearly 38 per cent of the rural roads in the state is deficient in surface condition. That would mean about 28,000 miles of the rural road system of the state, and imply a multi-million dollar increase in construction and maintenance allotments. Deficiencies in road surface types were also found, as well as significant defects in the size and quality of the structures on the typical rural road segments of Wisconsin.

Winnesh County
The conclusions were based upon an intensive inventory of rural roads in six pilot counties, including Douglas, Lincoln, Marinette, Trempealeau, Winnebago and Dane.

The committee is now tabulating findings on the conditions and the needs of the roads and streets within the cities and villages of the state.

The final report is expected to show substantial deficiencies there. Milwaukee is being tabulated separately.

Rural Sample
The committee technicians said the rural mileage of the six counties amounts to about 10 per cent of the total, but they said it is a reliable and adequate sample.

"Qualified crews of engineers and assistants drove each mile carefully recording its physical and cultural characteristics," the report emphasized in the summary of the findings of the pilot counties.

A sub-committee of the legislative study committee established the standards against which the adequacy of present rural roads was tested. The standards largely related to the volume of traffic carried by each section of the roads, it was said.

To Answer Demands
The legislature set up the road inventory and classification study as a counter measure to the constant and increasing demands of local governments of all kinds for additional shares of the state road tax dollar. It is generally accepted in legislative circles that the law-makers won't be disposed to reduce present levels of state subsidy, while the state highway department has reiterated for years the claim that its present share of total road improvement resources is inadequate for the demands made upon it for state trunk highway improvements.

Thus a new round of highway tax demands is the obvious implication of the legislative studies showing substantial deficiencies in the maintenance and construction standards of the local road grid of Wisconsin.

Lost Red Leadership

Browder Says Stalin Had Party Dismiss Him

New York—Earl Browder says Joseph Stalin personally had him kicked out as head of the American communist party.

Stalin, according to an article by Browder in the current issue of Harper's magazine, could not permit peaceful coexistence with the United States — nor permit Browder and the American party to support it—because it would have meant the end of Stalin's "personal dictatorship."

The statement was Browder's first public comment on the ouster which took place in 1945.

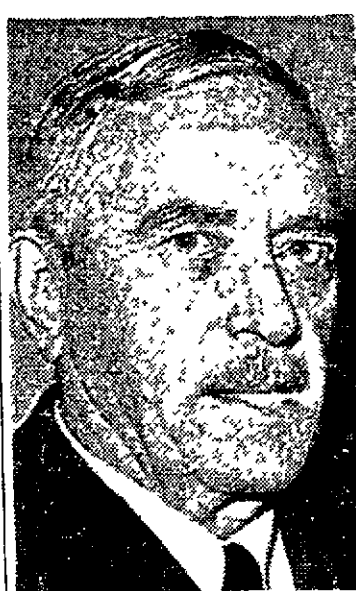

Browder said he was never fully aware of the reasons behind his removal as general secretary of the American Communist party until Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev made a speech to the twentieth Russian party congress in 1956 condemning Stalin and his terrorist methods.

Before that, Browder wrote, he had wondered whether his ouster, following criticism by French communist leader Jacques Duclos, had been inspired by Stalin himself or an anti-Stalin faction.

Khrushchev's speech, Browder said, had made it plain that "there had been no anti-Stalin faction for years. There had not even been a party—only Stalin. By Stalin's personal decision alone could the Duclos letter have been written."

"Stalin needed the cold war," he added, "to take the place of the hot war then coming to a close. He needed it to keep up the sharp international tensions by which alone he could maintain such a regime."

Browder said he had often been asked why he did not

"Stalin needed the cold war," he added, "to take the place of the hot war then coming to a close. He needed it to keep up the sharp international tensions by which alone he could maintain such a regime."

Browder said he had often been asked why he did not understand this when he was expelled as a "revisionist."

He said he had been just as much in the dark as was former President Harry S. Truman, "who as president had sources of information far superior to mine." He said Truman speculated in 1948 that since Potsdam Stalin had become "a prisoner of the politburo."

"I could not challenge this conception until after Nikita's revelation," Browder said.

Foster Wrecked Party
Khrushchev, he said, "has now adopted the 'heresy' for which I was kicked out . . . His new policy of coexistence is almost word for word the same line I advocated 15 years ago. So my crime has become—at least for the moment—the new orthodoxy."

Browder said Stalin's action, through the "Duclos letter," "condemned the American communist party to death."

"It put at its head William Z. Foster, an ultra-left secretary who for 25 years had wrecked every organization on which he could place his hands. Foster ran true to form and soon wrecked the party which he had sought to control . . ."

But the party was doomed anyway, Browder said, because it was based on a European "socialist perspective . . . which could not be made to fit the reality of America. The New World was really a new world, socially and economically—destined to find a road to socialism not dreamed of by Marx or any of the prophets of socialism, whether Utopian or scientific . . ."

School Board Unit, Union To Talk Pay

Building Service Employees Request Wage, Fringe Raises

The business affairs committee of the Appleton board of education will meet at 7:15 p.m. today with the Building Service Employees' union to discuss the union's 6-point request for salary and fringe benefit increases.

The union has asked the following benefits for mechanics, carpenters, painters, engineers, janitors, janitresses and maintenance men:

1. That the board of education pay half of the Blue Cross and Blue Shield insurance charges. Although the workers are covered by group insurance, they now pay the premiums themselves.

Want Call-Back Change

2. That all employees having 10 years or service receive three weeks of vacation.

3. That on all call backs—such as those required when schools are used at night—the personnel be paid for at least two hours of work.

4. That all call-back time be paid at $2 an hour, rather than the present $1.80 rate.

5. That anyone working on repair or emergency on Saturday, Sunday or holidays be paid $2.50 an hour.

6. That all categories receive a 5 per cent raise in pay.

The committee also will discuss school sites and salaries for clerical workers, truck driver, store clerk, cooks, matrons, purchasing agent, and superintendent of buildings for 1960-61.

The school administration business affairs committee have indicated they favor some of the requests and oppose others, in whole or in part. Any changes in the pay and benefit plan must be approved by the entire board.

Board Grants Mann July-December Raise

The Appleton board of education voted unanimously Monday to award Supt. John P. Mann a contract for July 1 to December 31 at the rate of $14,100 per year.

Mann retires at the end of the year, and the board has begun its search for his replacement.

The superintendent's salary increase amounts to $600 a year, or $300 for the 6-month period.

Razing Problem Referred to Knuth

The Appleton board of education Monday referred to Business Affairs Director William R. Knuth the question of financing razing two homes on the Edison school site.

The board originally thought the city would handle the razing, but Feb. 9 the board of public works decided it was the school board's task.

The houses, owned by Carl Bertram and Mrs. Sarah Baker, must be vacated by June 1 so razing and school construction can begin that month.

Insurance for Teachers OK'd

Liability Policy Covers All School Employees in System

A general and professional liability insurance policy for teachers and other school employees was approved by the Appleton board of education Monday night.

The policy, explained J. L. Swartout, Milwaukee insurance counselor, will cover liability incurred by teachers, school nurses, other employees and the board of education in connection with their jobs but not that incurred away from school.

The limits of liability are $100,000 for each person injured, $500,000 bodily injury for each accident and $5,000 property damage for each accident.

The total annual premium will be $637.03, or about $1.43 for each person covered.

The board previously had liability insurance which protected the board but not individual employees.

The new policy will cover such things as corporal punishment of pupils, malpractice by school nurses, laboratory accidents, and other accidents resulting from negligence on the part of school employees.

Historic Clark House Another Victim Of Overcrowding

St. Louis—An historic old house, once the home of the son of Gen. William Clark of the Lewis and Clark expedition, is another victim of overcrowding.

The mansion, called "Minoma," is to be torn down to make room for a housing development.

A tower on the old mansion was used as a lookout post for Indians.

Jefferson Clark, son of Gen. Clark, lived for many years in the mansion.

Takes No Stand On Annexation

Board of Education Awaits More Facts On Badger District

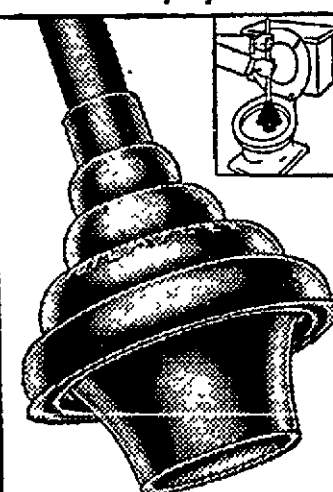

The Appleton board of education Monday continued its "hands off" policy toward taking a stand on the Badger school district's petition for annexation to the Appleton school district.

Board members indicated, however, they would like to know about the Badger district's financial condition.

The Outagamie and Calumet county school committees will act on the petition after a public hearing and a conference with the school boards involved. The hearing will be at 8 p.m. March 8 in Room 34 on the second floor of the Outagamie county courthouse annex.

Park Money Stalemate

There was a note of desperation in the announcement of Roman Koenings, the head of the state recreational forests and parks system, when he suggested in Madison recently that he will be required to hang chains across some of his park entrances this year to limit the number of users to the capacity of the camping sites and other facilities.

There also was a sound of frustration in the possibly impulsive comments of several members of the conservation commission that such unprecedented action may "awaken" the legislature to the nature of the park financing problem.

We freely confess our puzzlement at the lack of public response to these reiterated declarations of concern of the park administrators about the deterioration of the parks and their inability to expand their facilities to keep pace with the hugely increased demands being made upon them by the public which is turning ever more enthusiastically to outdoor recreation with its more generous leisure.

Quite seriously we wonder about the failure of the contemporary citizen, who can organize a pressure group and a legislative lobby for almost every conceivable purpose, to respond to the Wisconsin park financing dilemma. The conservation department's statistics about parks users, and more particularly about campers, are formidable. But seemingly they don't care whether their parks are maintained at reasonable levels, whether more park space is provided to meet the onrush of new park patrons, or their own favorite camping retreats become ever more noisy and congested.

An example of the phenomenon, contrary to the political lessons everywhere else evident, was in the utterly indifferent reception of the governor's park user sticker bill in the 1959 legislature. This was a reasonable proposition. It offered substantial relief to the worried parks division. But a couple of stubborn legislators were able to bottle up the proposal in committee until it died, without the slightest evidence of public disapproval or attention.

We can only conclude that the conservation department's park men are representing a crisis in the parks that doesn't exist, at least in the minds of the users who ought to be directly concerned.

Miracle Drugs and Prices

Some of the large drug manufacturing companies have experienced highly unfavorable publicity through the hearings before the anti-trust and monopoly subcommittee headed by Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee.

Sen. Kefauver is not a candidate for Democratic nomination for president this year because he must stay at home and conduct his campaign for reelection to the Senate. Because of that, and probably also due to the fact that he is going to face important opposition, he may need all the publicity he can get out of the investigation of the drug companies.

At a recent hearing he spoke critically of the income of one drug company and questioned the policy of charging more for drugs in the United States than they were sold for abroad. The senator read at this hearing a newspaper clipping which indicated that a sampling of public opinion had indicated 65.5 per cent had favored control of drug prices by law.

About the time the senator was speaking, the United States government filed civil anti-trust suits in federal court against two major drug companies.

In spite of what might be described as a threatening attitude by Sen. Kefauver in the actual filing of the suits, one of the drug companies issued the statement saying that "We do not believe we have committed any of the violations charged. We have always conducted our business in what we considered to be strict compliance with the anti-trust laws."

The drug companies have claimed that the criticism of their prices and apparent profits was unjustified because it failed to consider the huge expenditures for research that were required to develop these so-called miracle drugs. Often years of experimentation at a high cost resulted in no profitable drug whatsoever.

Louis Zahn, head of a wholesale drug company in Chicago, declares that the Kefauver charges have not taken into account the fact that for every successful wonder drug developed, 15 others are failures and go down the drain. He says the big drug makers show a profit of about 14 to 16 per cent while the drug wholesalers average about 2 per cent and the neighborhood druggists earn about 8 per cent.

"There are no rich druggists," according to Zahn. He points out that it takes from $15,000 to $50,000 to open a drug store. Zahn says that the druggist is the only professional person who earns his money not on the knowledge acquired in school but from an investment in an inventory. He says the druggist can't make enough money on prescriptions so they are required to invest in counter drugs, over the counter drugs and sundries. The average drug store, he says, has an inventory of some 25,000 items and yet it is not a supermarket. He declares "the average prescription is the biggest bargain on earth, not for what it costs, but for what it can do."

No one could possibly predict what the outcome of the anti-trust suits against the drug companies may be but Mr. Zahn's words have the ring of truth. The fact is that the prescription is one of the biggest bargains available. A great many people are alive today because a physician was able to prescribe one of the miracle drugs. It is too bad that the outcome of the anti-trust suits will not be known before the Tennessee election in November.

If the drug manufacturers have been cheating they should be punished. But it is unfair to punish them publicly if they are not guilty. The interest of the public in this case is that it shall continue to have new miracle drugs as rapidly as they can be produced and it is not in the public interest to punish in public statements a company that is risking its funds to produce a valuable drug. Anyone risking capital for such a purpose is entitled to recover its investment and to make a profit. That rule always will be in the public interest.

Standing Up for Their Rights

Some time ago Columnist Harry Golden facetiously suggested that removing all chairs in the south would solve the segregation problem. It was all right, said Golden, for Negroes and whites to stand together; but tradition and southern honor was against their sitting down together.

The new sit-down fad in a hundred southern communities suddenly makes Golden's proposal realistic. Negroes may be served at lunch counters if they remain standing. The trouble is all because some of them have insisted upon sitting down, have been refused service and have just kept on sitting.

What Others are Saying
Green Bay Policeman,
13-Year-Old Boy Feted

From The Green Bay Press Gazette

People of every race and creed around the world take pride in the fact that men of great accomplishments and particularly men of courage have somehow been attached to their communities. Thus it is that Green Bay is honored to have the Wisconsin Policemen's Protective association select two of its citizens to receive awards for heroism. Policeman Ralph Hull is to be honored by the state association for "exceptional ability, courage, fidelity and devotion to duty, thereby exemplifying the highest traditions of law enforcement."

Policeman Hull is well known to the people of Green Bay. During his first month as a member of the Green Bay Police Department he found the door open at a supermarket. Alone, at night, he entered the building and found two criminals in the act of looting the safe.

The Wisconsin Policemen's Protective association is well aware of the problem that confronted Hull and evidence that desperate men might be inside the building. There is no exaggeration in the statement that "he performed the arrest at great personal risk in the first moments of his entering the store before the whereabouts of the two criminals was determined."

Proud as the police department and the people of Green Bay may be of Mr. Hull, no one will challenge the right of Stephen Austin, 13, of 1168 Eliza Street, Green Bay, to stand proudly beside him. Young Austin was a member of a skin diving team searching for the body of a three-year-old child on the bottom of the Wolf river near New London last December, when his courage was challenged by an emergency. He noticed that a 17-year-old member of his team was having difficulty with his breathing apparatus. Twice he gave his team member his mouthpiece in the hope of keeping him alive until they could be rescued and on one occasion he left the divers' lifeline to save another member of the team who was being carried away by the swift current. Because he had given his precious air supply to others, Stephen lost consciousness in the frigid water but was later rescued. The boy he had attempted to save lost his life but Stephen Austin had proved his own stark courage by putting everything he had into the attempted rescue.

Both of these heroes deserve the awards and this community can well be proud of them.

Pres. Eisenhower and Farmers
Are Victims of 'Price Fixing'

Editor, Post-Crescent:

The plight of the farmer reminds me of the plight of Pres. Eisenhower.

When he took office a hostile congress told him: "Now here you have a public debt of $280 billion. Every month there will be $3 to $5 billion in bonds falling due. The people will want their money; not all but some of them will need it. But we are not going to let you sell bonds to raise money to repay these people; that is to say, we are not going to allow you to raise the interest on these bonds to what other sources will pay, hence you won't be able to sell the bonds, to repay the bonds that are falling due. We won't raise taxes either for you to use money to repay bonds falling due. So where are you going to get the money? You are in a pickle!"

Result: All over the world people heard and got scared and started drawing their money out of the United States in the form of gold. They heard we might have to default on our bonds. Our credit rating was impaired. We put our own president in a strait jacket, hurt the credit of the United States dollar, besides being unfair to all the good people who were patriotic enough to buy government bonds.

Of course any sane person knows that if our own government bonds go down the drain, our savings accounts go down too, as will our insurance and life insurance policies. In fact our whole country would go down the drain.

So it goes with the farmers too: Many years ago it was decided to give farmers price supports. Now when there is a big surplus overhanging the market, price supports amount to only one thing: Price fixing. But you can't fix prices for one segment of the economy like the farmers, and not fix salaries of the working people who make the things the farmers buy or else there is an imbalance. Wages go up, prices go up; but what the farmer produces is "fixed." Before too long there is difficulty for the farmer to pay his taxes. Benson, like Eisenhower, inherited a "pickle."

I hope the younger generation who are now reaching manhood and womanhood will never allow prices of anything to be "fixed" even under the name of price supports, without insisting that wages be fixed too, and rents too, and prices of manufactured articles, too. And I hope in the future when the government starts withholding taxes from the income of one segment of the economy, it starts withholding from the earnings of all segments of the economy. I can't help but feel a free economy is more "just" and "fair" to all, but if you start "fixing" one thing, you've got to "fix" everybody down the line, or else you are in for trouble.

Looking Backward
Opinion Voiced on Slavery Issue

100 YEARS AGO

Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for the week of Feb. 25, 1860.

"The Republican party does not propose to meddle with Slavery anywhere, and there is not a Democratic editor in the North with any reasonable pretensions to intelligence who does not know it. All insinuations to the contrary are mere hypocrisy." From the Whitewater Register.

Then why, in the name of all that is truthful, does Shanghaiism keep up such an eternal howl about the "wrongs and rascality" of Slavery? Why does its votaries think they are doing God service by stealing Negroes from comfortable homes and turning them loose upon the cold charities of a money-getting generation of superior beings?

Why are constitutional laws for the reclamation of Negro property openly nullified by a Shanghai Supreme Court? Why all this clamor about Freedom of Kansas? Why these efforts of Gov. Randall and Sen. Doolittle to colonize Negro slaves in South America?

Why is it preached and printed that no slaveholder, nor any apologist of Slavery, can enter the kingdom of heaven?

The Register knows that the "irrepressible conflict" notions of Seward are the cardinal ideas of its political bedfellows in this State.

25 YEARS AGO

Tuesday, Feb. 19, 1935

Roger W. Babson, business economist, forecast an immediate boom in business as a result of the gold decision, but he warned — "the day of reckoning will come."

The largest military spending program in 15 years was started through congress that day. The house appropriations committee wrote its approval upon expenditure of $318,131,482 by the army during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1936. It told the war department it might pledge an additional $7,686,753 for airplanes. The total recommended was $48,815,548 more than the 1935 appropriations.

Proposed legislation affecting law enforcement in the state was discussed at a meeting of peace officers and legislators at Milwaukee.

W. U. Gallaher, superintendent of the Appleton water department, was named chairman of a committee of three to study the question of licensing waterworks operators, at the second Wisconsin Short Course for Waterworks operators at Madison.

Work of the Outagamie county park commission in utilizing tax delinquent lands, conservation and fire prevention work was outlined by R. J. Meyer, secretary, at a meeting of the Lions club.

Under the Capitol Dome
State Education Board
To be Proposed Again

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Madison — Virtually unnoticed recently was the declaration of the usually influential Wisconsin Education Association in favor of legislation that, on its face, would achieve one of the most significant changes in Wisconsin educational organization suggested in recent times.

The 30,000 member WEA, to which the legislature listens with the respect that is implied by the political statistics, offered a plan for a state board of education to share the responsibilities of the state superintendent of mies, do good to those who hate you, and pray for those who persecute you and calumniate you" — A true Christian must lay aside the hatred of enmity and all desire of revenge; must render to the enemy at least the common tokens of esteem, and seek reconciliation.

The seriousness of this command is proven by excerpts from "Screams in the Night" (P-C editorial).

Whittaker Chambers (long time communist), in his story of Hiss and other traitors, believes that those who quit the party share one experience in common before they are ready to admit their errors — screams!

Screams from torture chambers, persecutions, mass-starvation, cause him to ask "What man can call himself a communist who has not accepted the fact that terror is an instrument of policy? Screams have reached every communist's mind . . . and they stay there; for they are rooted in the soul!"

Therefore, why fear the pope, our spiritual father? Pope Leo XIII wrote in his encyclical Rerum Novarum: "But we affirm, without hesitation that all the strivings of men will be in vain if they leave out the church. It is the church that insists on the authority of the gospel, upon those teachings whereby the conflict can be brought to an end, or rendered at least far less bitter; the church uses her efforts not only to enlighten the mind, but to direct by her precepts, the life and conduct of each and all."

public instruction and to guide him in his many and important tasks.

Because the organization of school teachers and school masters made no move to sponsor the legislation during the recent fall session of the legislature it may be presumed that it is waiting for the 1961 regular session. Thus the idea may be evaluated during the legislative interim, and possibly, discussed during the legislative election campaigns.

BACKGROUND

The idea is not new. It has been offered many times during the last several decades, and sometimes argued seriously.

One of the reasons why it has never had the full backing of the conglomeration of forces sometimes called "the school lobby" may have been that on other occasions it may have seemed to contain an implicit criticism of the incumbent superintendent, from C. P. Cary through John Callahan and the current elected chief, George Watson.

If that was one of the factors in the failure of the earlier bills, the timing is more fortuitous today. For Mr. Watson is preparing to retire at the end of his present term. At the end of next year, and the proposition can be considered therefore without prejudice to his pride or self-interest, or without any reflections, real or implied, against his successor who won't be known until after the elections of the spring of 1961.

Nor is there any desire here to suggest, even obliquely, that the recent school superintendents including Mr. Watson were not adequate for their tasks. But it is a curious fact, nevertheless, that in this state where the people have jealously insisted upon all sorts of checks and balances to curb the powers of their other elected officers, the state school superintendent has stood in a class alone with respect to power.

UNIQUE

Wisconsin runs its welfare system through a closely balanced system of administrator, and board of directors. Similarly its health, agriculture, conservation and other services have executives and boards that guide them and to a considerable extent can control them, or veto their actions.

The governor's powers are circumscribed carefully by law, and he can be checkmated politically at every turn, as the present governor learned in dealing with the state senate this year.

Yet the superintendent of public instruction stands grandly supreme in his sphere. He can make appointments without submitting them to anybody's confirmation. He can organize and reorganize school districts. He can veto the organization orders of local units of government that enjoy "home rule." He has enormous powers of regulation and supervision and is the supreme licensing authority in the vital educational field. To a degree infrequently understood he has considerable powers in the development of curriculum.

There may also be some irony in the fact that while he runs his own show without guidance or hindrance, he sits as a part of policymaking boards of directors of nominally independent agencies, such as the University of Wisconsin, the state colleges, and the state board of vocational education.

Pastor's Sermon
Paul's Letter
To Phillipians
Valuable Today

Christ Key to Contentment, Peace,
Rev. Buckman Says

An epistle of guidance and promise written by St. Paul to the newly-formed Phillipian church encourages them to a life of Christian integrity and rejoicing was applied to contemporary living by the Rev. L. R. Buckman, pastor of Wesleyan Rev. Buckman an Methodist church, in his sermon Sunday.

St. Paul "gives two wonderful mottoes for us to use, especially in times of darkness or testing: 'I can do all things through Christ who strengthens me' and 'My God shall supply all your needs according to his riches in glory by Christ Jesus.'"

"First of all, the Christian ought to rejoice in Christ because he is able to live in a right relationship to others," he said. "There must be brotherly love to one another. It is possible to get along with others if the love of Christ is in the heart."

Brother's Keeper
The Rev. Mr. Buckman said man is, in a real sense, his brother's keeper, for we owe an obligation to everyone we meet and others are influenced by our example.

Man should find the themes for his thought in the Bible, for the person who habitually thinks about the base and the vile will show it in his conduct, the Rev. Mr. Buckman said.

Contentment
"Part of the pattern for rejoicing includes our relationship to Christ Himself. We can find the peace that passes human understanding only in Him."

"Never has there been so much talk of peace with so little of it in evidence as today. This is because people do not know Christ, the prince of peace," the pastor said. "There will be world peace only when people are at peace with God."

St. Paul also gives a lesson in Christian contentment when he says, "I have learned in whatever state I am, to be content" and "Godliness with contentment is great gain."

"We so quickly forget that we must have Christ to satisfy the craving of the soul. No amount of material things will ever bring peace to the soul. History abounds with examples to prove this. Jesus Christ, the son of God, is the all-sufficient One. He has the answer to life's problems," he concluded.

Medical Travel Costs Deductible

BY SYLVIA PORTER

(In collaboration with the Research Institute of America)

There may be some startling tax savings opportunities for you in recent developments affecting the medical expense deduction allowed on your income tax.

If you spend the winter in Florida, California or any other place away from home for acceptable medical reasons, you may be permitted to deduct more of your expenses than you thought you could. You even may be in line for refunds of tax paid in previous years.

Since 1954, the treasury has ruled that the travel costs of medically necessary trips away from home are deductible, but that the living expenses incurred during these trips are not deductible.

Misconception
However, a somewhat surprising tax court decision last year said that this was a misconception — and that living expenses away from home for medical reasons also can be claimed as a medical expense.

A New Jersey resident named Bildner won this favorable result. Because of a heart ailment, his doctors advised him to live in Florida during the cold months. They specifically said the move was essential if he was not to jeopardize his health. He therefore took his wife and child to Fort Lauderdale, Fla., and rented an apartment for $1,500. The court let him treat one-third of the apartment rent, or $500, as a medical expense. The other $1,000 was considered attributable to his wife and child.

The case left open the question of deducting food expenses, because Bildner hadn't claimed that his food costs were deductible as a medical expense. He felt that they really weren't because they didn't come to more than he would have had to pay at home. But it isn't clear whether in itself this should bar these costs from being part of medical expenses under the court's view.

The odds are that the treasury will not agree with the court and that it will fight any taxpayer who on his income tax return takes living expense deductions.

But if you had these expenses last year, it well may be worth-while to deduct them on the return you'll be filing before the April 15 income tax deadline.

Here are the coldly logical reasons why:

If and when your return is examined, the issue on these medical expense deductions may have been settled by the higher courts or by treasury agreement.

If the issue is settled in the favor of the taxpayer, you have saved on taxes on your 1959 return.

Lose Little
If the final result goes against taxpayers, it simply will mean that you'll pay the tax you otherwise would have had to pay if you hadn't deducted the living expenses. You'll only be out the interest due — a relatively minor consideration.

The treasury probably also will move to disallow a claim for refund of tax for earlier years on the basis of a deduction for living expenses which you didn't claim in those earlier returns.

Here again, though, your claim for the refund of tax will keep the year open. If the issue is finally settled in favor of taxpayers, you can get the refund. If it is not, you lose nothing by making the claim.

Tomorrow: more tax-savings hints on medical expenses.

Home Isn't Safe Anymore

Growing Hazards Attached to Living Make It Dangerous

Chicago — The home can no longer qualify as the symbol of safety and security traditionally ascribed to it, the Journal of the American Medical Association says.

The growing hazards attached to living in the modern home make it a decidedly unsafe place, an editorial said.

"Current accident records, especially involving children, but by no means excluding adults, indicate the necessity for revised thinking. There is a demand on health and safety officials, the medical profession, educators, and enlightened public leaders to render progress toward easier living as safe as possible."

During the last 12 months, the editorial said, a great amount of publicity has been given to plastic bag suffocations, lead poisonings due to fumes from wooden battery cases burned for fuel and carbon monoxide poisonings due to inadequate ventilation of space heaters, particularly in trailers.

Without Fanfare
However, the Journal said, many hazards have appeared without fanfare, incidental to the introduction of labor-saving machinery and the application of modern chemistry to home cleaning and sanitation problems. Detergents, chemical cleansers, and weed killers, all potential poisoners, were cited as examples.

"The dangers involved in increased use of potent drugs, particularly self-medication with barbiturates and other sleeping tablets, are increasing rather than diminishing despite warnings by medical and public health authorities," it said.

"Do-it-yourself equipment, particularly power tools, creates additional dangers, especially in the hands of the unskilled."

"The hazard of carbon monoxide poisoning is not limited to trailers and shack homes. Even the modern heating system, if improperly vented, may feed back carbon monoxide into the home, as may gasoline motors left running unattended in closed, attached garages."

WITHOUT RED CROSS!

Have you ever imagined what kind of a fix we could be in, if we didn't have Red Cross and its volunteer services? Perhaps you haven't because — through good fortune — you have not been touched by the kind of need Red Cross meets.

Perhaps you have not been subjected to any of the serious disasters which strike every year — frequently right near by. Recently, people in Green Bay and Waupaca County had tornado damage. A few years ago, the families of Berlin and Colfax, Wisconsin had great and emergency need for Red Cross. More than a quarter of a million dollars were poured into these nearby towns by Red Cross, from its disaster resources.

Perhaps you have been fortunate and have not needed emergency Red Cross service for your home and family, as so many of our local servicemen and veterans have. Last year more than 750 individuals and families received some emergency aid from Red Cross in Outagamie County.

Perhaps you cannot fully appreciate the help and comfort Red Cross Gray Ladies and Gray Men (including a number of Lawrence College volunteers) bring each week to the patients at Winnebago Hospital, the County Hospital, at Riverview Sanatorium and at the Moderne Convalescent Home.

Red Cross is nothing but volunteers — those who serve and those who re-enroll year after year. None of the services provided to the citizens of Outagamie County would continue long without this volunteer habit.

This year, our local chapter has a budget of $34,800 which is needed to provide the services mentioned above and to train others in First Aid, in Water Safety, in Home Nursing, and in the many other services of Red Cross.

Perhaps this is a good time to "count our blessings" and to enroll once again in a Red Cross membership. Without Red Cross ours would not be the wonderful community it continues to be. This year, enroll your entire family in a joint family membership.

what do you really know about Red Cross . . .

Charlie Tells How Fur-Bearing Animals are Trapped in Woodland

BY CHARLES HOUSE
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Wabeno — In this forest wonderland where 73 per cent of the property is government owned and blessed with rivers and streams and springs and beautiful forests, nature has given mankind a lingering look at something that used to be.

Here is a near-perfect habitat for otter and beaver and mink and muskrat and other fur-bearing animals, but only a handful of the citizenry run traplines.

They are Elmer Gayhart and his 17-year-old son, Junior. There is Walter Stubbs, a farmer, Albert Schuster, 73, a semi-retired carpenter, and Acting Postmaster James Harrison.

They prowl the forests to ply the skill which once was the forte of almost every man in this region. They work the streams and the rivers, the springs, the hills and the valleys and each one of them employs his own tricks to get his quarry. In general, however, here is how they trap.

Popple Bait

The beaver dotes on people and the trappers use it extensively. Before the first freeze-up the beaver pulls near to his home a number of boughs from which he will feed during the winter. He is condemned to stay under the ice and in his beaver house for the cold months. His own popple begins to sour and he readily accepts the fresh with which the trapper baits his trap.

With Elmer Gayhart, I helped set a trap for the beaver. The ice of the lake near a beaver house was chopped out to water level. A strong pole was prepared as a base by nailing a brace to hold the trap. The trap was fastened to the brace, and then fresh popple of sapling thickness was nailed and wired a beaver length above the trap.

Over these bits of green poplar we nailed and wired tender popple sprigs which are preferred by the beaver. Then the pole is sunk into the mud at the bottom of the lake with the popple just under the ice.

Beaver Gets Caught

One day a beaver emerged from his house and visited the bait. He chewed the sprigs. As he moved, his foot came near the trap. Finished with the sprigs, he turned his attention to the second-best sapling which takes longer to eat. Each time he moved, his foot came near the trap. At last he touched it and it snapped shut over his hind leg. He drowned quickly. It's value: $6 or $8.

To trap brush wolves, which are called coyotes here, local woodsmen use a horrifying scent for (1) a fear allayer and (2) a lure to attract them.

Then traps purified of is "nicked" by a trap, he will never come back and is, from then on, "trap wise". The traps are set in open water.

Mink are customarily lured by scent and by fresh fish or fish slime.

The traps are set along small holes along river banks into which mink love to crawl. Fish slime or other odorous materials are sprinkled nearby and the traps are set under the surface of the water and just in front of the hole.

Foxes are taken by the same traps which are set for the brush wolves. "The fox is a very dumb animal," said Junior Gayhart. "Once you learn to know their ways, you can catch them easily."

Attracted by Odor

But knowing their ways is not a simple matter for a layman. Experience and a knowledge of the woodland is necessary.

Trappers know that an odor is a greater attraction than meat bait. Varmints may eat the bait or it may rot away before the quarry can be taken. The traps are usually placed on knolls around the edges of swamps or fields where they travel and hunt.

It is "almost impossible" to trap a wolf in snow. They are much too wise to ignore the sign of mankind and such sign is difficult to hide. But trappers continue to try. "But," said Gayhart, "you better not handle the traps without gloves on. They'd better be free of anything but the right kind of odor, and whatever you do — don't sweat while you're setting them."

One necessary piece of equipment for Gayhart is a kitchen spatula, the kind used for turning eggs. He uses this to sift the snow which he filters onto the traps.

"If you put snow on the traps with your hands it will freeze and the trap can't be sprung. The spatula drops it down just like it came from heaven."

Arnies Edge Shamrock 61-59 In City Cage Competition

Kaukauna — Arnies Bar Shamrock Bar 61-59. The losers now have one win and two losses.

The second game saw Kruegers roll to an easy 81-32 win over Thilmans. The winners have a 3-0 mark while the losers are 0-4 in second half action.

A commanding first half lead and accuracy from the free throw stripe enabled Arnies to tip the Irish. The winners were outscored 25-24 in the field goal department but hit on 13 of 21 charity tosses. The losers scored nine of 11 free throw tries for an even better percentage but didn't have the opportunities.

Arnies led 14-12 at the end of the first quarter and increased the lead to 31-20 at the halfway mark. The losers closed the gap to 43-39 at the three quarter mark and held a 2-point scoring edge in the final frame before the buzzer ended the rally.

Mike Rohe scored 15 points and Pat Casperson registered 14 for the winners while Phil Haas scored 19, Ron Newhouse hit 16 and Jack Coenen scored 14 for the losers.

Thilco was in the game for the first quarter only as Krueger Furniture stormed to its third win. The winners led 13-10 at the end of the first period and by halftime had moved out of range with a 37-13 advantage.

The winners continued with a 24-point barrage to 10 for the losers in the third frame and held a 26-9 scoring advantage in the final period.

increases would certainly be justified now. We're all in a price-cost squeeze. Our costs have risen but this hasn't been reflected in our prices."

Tuttle Press said, "Emily Post used to be against paper napkins. But now she's withdrawn her agitation against them and it's helped our business a lot."

Fast Growing

Paper napkins, Watson reported, are his company's fastest growing product. The concern also turns out crepe paper and gift wrappings.

Tuttle is aiming for a 10 per cent increase in production and sales this year, Watson said. He added it will probably hold prices at existing levels.

The company has "big plans for expansion this year," Watson declared. He said it intends to modernize some of its facilities and install additional equipment.

"One of our biggest problems," Watson stated, "is the high cost of getting our goods to market. It's costing more all the time and I think it will become an increasing problem."

'57 Price Hike

Gilbert made his price increase prediction after noting that "the first price raise for our segment of the industry hard to float a lot of inflation in such circumstances."

Short Work Week

He said new ideas, new products and new processes will spawn "the economic abundance which will characterize the '60s. And it is very clearly not going to be a result of having production workers do more and harder work. In fact, the prospect is that the work week will be cut by 2½ hours by 1970."

He warned, however, salesmanship will become even more important during the next decade.

Bay West Paper's Servotte gave two reasons for his prediction of the paper towel growth:

- 1—The constant upgrading of sanitary standards;
- 2—The anticipated increase in general economic activity, to which paper towel sales are closely linked.

10 Per Cent Hike

Production of the towels this year should top the 1959 level by 5 to 10 per cent, Servotte said.

Profits of paper towel makers should push higher this year, Servotte said. Earnings mounted sharply at the start of 1959, he reported, but then tapered off toward the end of the year.

Servotte said "modest price

He said higher freight and labor costs "are bound to come in mid-year."

"There is no other answer but that prices will have to advance again by mid year," Gilbert said he considers the danger of more inflation the first problem for the paper industry.

Other Factors

The size and quality of the new cotton crop and the "political climate" are also factors influencing price changes, he said.

Gilbert expects his company, which makes high quality paper such as is used in official documents, to do as well in 1960 as in 1959.

Aaron P. Mitchell of the Riegel Paper corporation, New York, is the new chairman of the Sulphite Paper Manufacturers Association.

He was elected Monday at the 28th annual meeting during the APPA convention.

Other Officers

Elected vice chairman was L. L. Gould, assistant vice president of Crown Zellerbach corporation. Mitchell has been senior vice president and director of marketing for Riegel since July.

Elected governors were: R. C. Flom, Marathon Division of American Can company; G. E. Veneman, Nekoosa Edwards Paper company; J. R. Cryan, Fraser Paper, Ltd.; E. W. McCourt, Consolidated Water Power and Paper company; R. A. Nash, Sorg Paper company; W. C. Shorter, Union Bag-Camp Paper corporation; D. L. Stocker, KVP Sutherland Paper company; H. W. Sutter, Jr., Champion Paper and Fibre company; and H. B. Vergara, International Paper company.

tulla assistance treaty of Rio de Janeiro.

The modernistic capital-to-be was decked out colorfully for Eisenhower's first stop on the 4-nation mission he hopes will cement western hemisphere unity.

Officials estimated that if the weather stayed clear, more than 100,000 persons — or virtually the entire population of the new city — would turn out to greet Eisenhower. Most of them are workmen brought here for construction of the city. They were given the day off to greet the president.

Wet Season

Along the plaza from which this giant Latin American nation will be governed starting April 21, bulldozers, graders, derricks, trucks and jeeps were lined up for Eisenhower to review along with workers.

This is the wet season in Brasilia, 600 miles northwest of Rio de Janeiro, and decoration of the city was held up until just a few hours before Eisenhower's arrival because of the threat of more rain.

Eisenhower's schedule in Brasilia included a civic reception in the center of the city, the unveiling of a monument commemorating his visit, dedication of the foundation stone for the new U.S. embassy, and a dinner he will give tonight for Kubitschek.

Pollution Bill Vetoes; Cites Federal Costs

vote to support a veto of a bill that would offer financial help to cities over the country for building sewage disposal plants.

Today's veto was the first of the new session of congress.

The bill would continue a water pollution act of 1956 and raise the total of federal funds that could be spent from 500 to 900 million dollars over a 10-year period.

Proponents of the bill contend it is vital in order to keep waste and sewage out of streams used as sources of water supply.

Threat to Health

Eisenhower agreed that rivers and streams are a priceless national asset and that "polluted water is a threat to the health and well-being of all our citizens."

But he said pollution and its correction are so closely involved with local industrial processes and with public water supply and sewage treatment that the problem can be solved successfully only if state and local governments and industry assume the major responsibility.

Eisenhower said the federal

They did not elaborate, but quite possibly will before Eisenhower concludes his visit to Brazil Friday. He is to address the Brazilian congress in Rio, before continuing on to Argentina, Chile and Uruguay.

Site of Monument

Sec. of State Christian A. Herter read the declaration in English, and the Brazilian minister, Horacio Lafer, read it in Portuguese, at the site of a monument commemorating Eisenhower's visit to Brasilia.

The declaration is to be inscribed at the monument in this spectacular new city on a plateau 600 miles northwest of Rio.

President Eisenhower called Brasilia a symbol of Brazil's progress.

"Your decision to varce a beautiful city out of the wilderness reminds us of our own decision many years ago to move the capital of our fledgling nation from Philadelphia to the District of Columbia," he said in a brief address prepared for a civic reception.

The address was aimed mainly at Brasilia's construction workers and their families. To those workers and to all others in Brazil, Eisenhower brought special greetings.

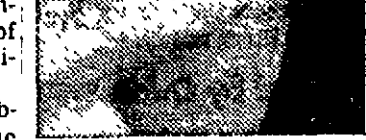

The declaration by Eisenhower and Kubitschek on economic advancement linked to the preservation of peace recalled the American president's emphasis on that point in his talk to the people of the United States Sunday night.

Great Challenges

The two presidents expressed belief that the inter-American system, calling for an ever-improving way of life, presents one of the great challenges and opportunities of this age. They called for full implementation of principles of political and economic solidarity as set forth in the charter of the organization of American states and the mu-government can help with appropriate cooperation, but he said it should be by stimulating state and local action rather than providing "excuses for inaction" as he said the vetoed bill would do.

Lawrence Says Ike's Talk Was Warning To Russia

Infiltration in Latin America Criticized

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington—President Eisenhower in his address to the nation before departing for Latin America struck a blow for freedom in the world as against slavery, for truth in world debate, and for impartiality in judgment as against disparagement of America's military power to deter attack.

The president left no doubt that he had a realistic Russia in mind as he said that "the bonds among our American republics are not merely geographic — rather they are shared principles and convictions."

"Together we believe in God, in the dignity and rights of man, in peace with justice, and in the right of every people to determine its own destiny."

This was but one of several shafts directed at the communists, who in recent months have been infiltrating Latin America and encouraging activities hostile to the United States — as, for instance, in Cuba. Mr. Eisenhower has not voiced any criticism more severe since

Khrushchev came to America than is contained in the following paragraphs:

Not Colonial Relationship

"We condemn all efforts to undermine the democratic institutions of the Americas through coercion or subversion, and we abhor the use of the lie and distortion in relations among nations."

"Very recently, in a faraway country that has never known freedom — one which today holds millions of humans in subjugation — impassioned language has been used to assert that the United States has held Latin America in a colonial relationship to ourselves. This is a blatant falsehood. In all history no nation has had a more honorable record in its dealings with other countries than has the United States."

The man who used that "impassioned language" about the United States was Nikita Khrushchev at a reception in Moscow for President Gronchi of Italy. The "faraway country that has never known freedom" is the Soviet Union.

Mr. Eisenhower's remarks are not accompanied by any hint of future policy. But it is conceivable that, if the subversive activities against the independence of Latin American countries continue, the United States may issue a reaffirmation of the Monroe doctrine and call on the organization of American states to assert itself with regard to Soviet attempts to obtain control of Latin American countries.

Defense Strength

The statements raise anew some doubt as to whether, if the Soviet policies of stirring up anti-Americanism in Latin America should continue, the United States can possibly visit the Soviet Union next summer as planned. About our defense posture, Mr. Eisenhower said:

"We have created a great deterrent strength—so powerful as to command and to justify the respect of knowledgeable and unbiased observers here at home and abroad."

"Our many hundreds of air force bombers deployed the world over—each capable of unleashing a frightful destruction—constitute a force far superior to any other, in numbers, in quality, and in strategic location of bases. We have, in addition, a powerful nuclear force in our aircraft carriers and in our host of widely deployed tactical aircraft. Adding constantly to these forces are advanced types of missiles steadily augmenting the armaments of all ground and other military units."

"Indestructible Force"

"As for longer range ballistic missiles, from a standing start only five years ago we have literally leaped forward in accomplishments no less than remarkable. Our Atlas missile, already amazingly accurate, became operational last year. Missiles of intermediate range are in forward bases. The first Polaris missile submarine—an almost invulnerable weapon—will soon be at sea. New generations of long-range missiles are under urgent development."

"Collectively, this is a force not unduly dependent upon any one weapon or any one service, not subject to elimination by sudden attack, but dressed by an industrial system unmatched on earth, and unhesitatingly supported by a vigorous people determined to remain free. Strategically, that force is far better situated than any force that could be brought to bear against us."

"We have forged a trust-worthy shield of peace—an indestructible force of incalculable power, ample for today and constantly developing to meet the needs of tomorrow. Today, in the presence of continuous threat, all of us can stand resolute and unafraid—confident in America's might as an anchor of free world security."

Smear America

The tragedy is that utterances here based on selfish politics, selfish ambition and a reckless disregard of the impressions made on the world by narrow criticisms of the defense policy of the United States have given the Soviets a chance to smear America not only in Europe but in Latin America. That is why the president had to employ the strong language he did when he said America's great deterrent strength is so powerful as to command and to justify the respect of knowledgeable and unbiased observers here at home and abroad."

Drought Perils Chinese Region

Tokyo — Communist China disclosed Monday that two million people are battling day and night against a drought in Shensi province, Northeast China.

Peiping radio said they are working around the clock in shifts "to overcome the lack of water resulting from small snowfall" this winter.

The broadcast said the drought fighters have thus far been responsible for "farm-land being irrigated at a speed of 466,000 hectares (1,165,000 acres) per day."

Peiping did not say how much land was hit by the drought or how much had been irrigated since the water shortage developed in early January.

The broadcast said some of the peasants were carrying "great quantities of big ice blocks" from the rivers so they would melt on the land. Others carry water from rivers, streams and wells, while other groups loosen the soil.

HE RE-GREW HAIR

Before Erickson Treatment A Few Months Later
Thomas A. Melton Jr. (above), shows he re-grew hair by the Erickson Home Treatment method.

Hair Specialists Here Tomorrow; Will Show How to Save Hair and Prevent Baldness

Chicago — New home treatment methods for saving hair and improving its growth will be demonstrated in Appleton, Wisconsin on Wednesday, February 24th, 1960 only. Other cities listed below.

Trichologist L. E. Schroer will be in charge, representing the dynamic Erickson Hair & Scalp Specialists organization. He will personally examine hair-worried men and women from 11:30 to 7:30 p.m. Wednesday at the Conway Hotel. Phone RE 4-2611.

20,000 TREATMENTS A MONTH

... Yes, the ERICKSON method of home scalp treatment has been so successful that an average of 20,000 treatments a month are now administered by ERICKSON clients—treatments they give to themselves right in the privacy of their own homes. This means that almost every minute of every waking hour of every day someone is realizing the benefits that may be derived from ERICKSON home treatment.

Who Can Be Helped?

For many years now Erickson Hair & Scalp Specialists have been checking the hair of thousands of people across the country. They have encountered and dealt with hundreds of cases of every kind of hair trouble. From this experience has grown the scientific knowledge leading to the development of the new Erickson home treatment.

Will the new Erickson treatment cure baldness? "No!" For we cannot help men and women who are slick-bald after years of gradual hair-loss. But if you still have fuzz and your scalp is still creating hair, you can at least save and thicken what you have. Some conditions, such as "spot baldness" usually have complete coverage if caught in time!

Other conditions that usually bring on excessive hair loss—dandruff, itching, over-oiliness or dryness, follicle clogged with sebum or seborrhea—can be corrected by the Erickson home treatment if caught before the "hair factories" are destroyed.

OVER 400 CITIES SERVED

The ERICKSON method, active in over 400 cities, is responsible for more home scalp treatments than all major hair specialists combined.

The most important thing is: "Don't wait until it's too late."

Surveys among men and women in all walks of life show that the worst enemies of your hair are (1) skepticism and (2) procrastination. The average balding person justifies his condition with one or the other of these two statements:

"I don't think anybody can stop hair loss"—or "Oh, I'm going to see an expert when I get around to it."

Baldness won't wait for doubters to be convinced or for procrastinators to take action later. You're going to keep losing hair till you're bald... unless you get your scalp in healthy, hair growing condition again.

Satisfy 95%

"Actually, our biggest problem is not in doing what we claim," says D. W. Erickson, director of the organization. "For we satisfy at least 95% of our clients which, when you consider that almost every person is a 'doubter' or a 'putter-offer' where hair is concerned, is an excellent showing. Getting these doubters and putter-offers to come in for an examination is really the problem."

Examine You Free

We want to make it clear that you incur absolutely no charge or obligation by coming in for an examination.

Your only obligation is to yourself to ease your mind of hair worries by learning how to save and thicken your hair at home. We will tell you frankly and sincerely whether or not you can be helped, how long it will take and how much it will cost. We do not accept cases that will not respond.

Hopeless Cases Refused

Erickson Hair and Scalp Specialists have established a very high reputation in the field for refusing any case that does not fall under the scope of its work. In the majority of cases of baldness and excessive hair loss (a condition sometimes described as male pattern baldness—has been identified as such). Erickson treatment is of little or no value, and again we state ERICKSON WILL CONTINUE ITS POLICY OF REFUSING ALL HOPELESS CASES.

Guarantee Satisfaction

The Erickson Hair & Scalp Specialists will give you a guarantee that you must be satisfied within 30 days or it costs you nothing.

You won't be obligated or embarrassed in any way. Examinations are given in private. Hours are from 11:30 to 7:30 p.m.

Badgers Own 3-Win Chain For First Time in 7 Years

Expect Carol Heiss To End America's Gold Medal Famine

U.S. Shut Out in 11 of First 27 Olympic Championships

BY MURRAY ROSE

Squaw Valley, Calif. — Barring an amazing upset, the Stars and Stripes of the United States should flutter high on the Olympic pole today for the first time in the eighth winter Olympics.

Already far ahead after completion of the compulsory figures, Carol Heiss of Ozone Park, N. Y., was rated a 1 to 100 shot to realize a 15-year ambition and win the Olympic figure skating gold medal — the only prize that has eluded her so far.

The pert, 20-year-old skating queen stepped on the ice for the free skating finale today with an almost unbeatable lead over her arch-rival, 18-year-old Sjoekja Dijkstra of Holland. Carol, the four-times world champion, had 9 ordinals — a perfect rating from the nine judges — and 837.8 points compared to the European champion's 20 ordinals and 792 points.

Upgrading Charged
Carol was far in front despite some eyebrow-lifting scoring on the fifth and final compulsory figure Monday. Five of the nine judges gave Miss Dijkstra more points on this difficult figure than they credited to Carol. One other official had them even. Several members of the U.S. family charged the judges upgraded the Dutch girl.

The Americans — shut out of the first 11 of the 27 championships — had another hope in the women's giant slalom. Penny Pitou, of Gifford, N.H., who was second in the downhill, and Betsy Snite, of Norwich, Vt., matched their skill and daring against Europe's best in the giant slalom on Papoose peak.

There was virtually no hope at all for Uncle Sam in the remainder of the program. He didn't have a ghost of a chance in the 3,000-meter women's speed skating, an event right up the Soviet Union's alley, or in the men's 15-kilometer (9.6 miles) cross-country ski race.

Sixteen Jernberg, Sweden's "king of the skis" and winner of the 30-kilometer gold medal, aimed to become the first double gold medal winner of the games by taking this race.

Another Black Day
Monday was another black day for the Yanks. The gold medals went to France, the U.S.S.R. and Germany, and the Soviet Union rolled up its advantage in the unofficial team point scoring.

The Soviets had 86 points, Germany 44, Sweden 29, the U.S.A. 16, Switzerland 15, Canada and Austria 13 each, Finland and Poland 11 each, Italy 8, Norway 6, Japan 3.

The best the Americans could do in individual competition was eighth place in the women's 1,000-meter speed skating. Jeane Ashworth of Wilmington, Mass., set a national record of 1:36.5 in the

Turn-Away Crowd Sees Foxes Lead From Early Stages

Fox Valley Lutheran completed a 1959-60 series sweep over Xavier Catholic High school Monday night in the Fox Lutheran gym, 51-44.

It was the second triumph in two games with the Xavier frosh-sophs for FVL, a 4-year school. Monday, the Foxes matched their point total of the first game win (51-49).

The second meeting in the new intra-city rivalry drew a turn-away crowd of over 1,000. Extra bleachers brought in for the contest were filled an hour before game time.

Lueck Leads
Xavier's "Chuck" Lueck led both clubs in scoring with 21 points, 15 of them as the Hawks fought to get back in the game in the final period. Paul Ziegler helped out with 10 points and Mike Gertz tallied nine.

The Foxes had four boys in double figures. Jack Kitowski was tops with 14, Rog Bartmann hit 13, Darrel Mindel 12 and Dennis Dobberstein 10. The bigger and older Foxes pulled in 56 rebounds, with Mindel grabbing 20 and Bartmann 18.

Fox Lutheran's sixth straight win hiked its record to 12-10. Xavier has a 13-7 record, 11-7 against 4-year schools.

Ziegler's basket put Xavier ahead, 2-0, but then Bartmann wired a free throw and Mindel a jump shot to move the winners in front to stay. The Foxes led, 9-3, after one quarter and 21-13 at the half. Kitowski counted eight of the Foxes' 12 second quarter points.

The Foxes increased their advantage to 29-23 after three low-scoring quarters.

FVL built its lead to 44 points (47-33) in the final period, as the Hawks went out of the zone which they'd used all the way and into a press. Lueck's great closing effort helped cut down the final margin.

Lucas Maintains Lead in Scoring
Chicago — Jerry Lucas, Ohio State's sophomore candidate for All-America honors, maintained his Big Ten all-games basketball scoring lead.

Lucas has a 27.2 average with 544 points in 20 games. Terry Dischinger, Purdue sophomore, held second place with 26.0 average.

Ann Arbor, Mich. — Wisconsin's 88-82 overtime basketball victory against Michigan set a record of sorts for both teams Monday night.

The triumph was the third in a row for the Badgers, their longest Big 10 winning streak in seven years. And the loss for Michigan was its eleventh in a row, a new all-time low.

Regulation play ended at 75-75.

After trailing by 12 points late in the first half and by six at halftime—with the score 40-34 for Michigan — Marty Gharrity powered the Badgers into the lead for the first time with only six minutes left to play.

Miller Ties It

With Wisconsin ahead, 75-71, a stall proved ineffective. Michigan's John Tidwell, who scored 27 points, put the Wolverines within two points with 30 seconds left in regulation time. Terry Miller then dropped in a pair of free throws to knot the score and send the game into an extra session.

After Tidwell scored a free throw, Gharrity sank two free throws, and Jack Ulwelling netted a jump shot—and the Wolves never got closer than three points again.

Lovell Farris topped the scoring for both teams with 28 points, even though he fouled out with 10 minutes left. Gharrity topped Wisconsin scoring with 26 points, followed by Tom Hughbanks with 23 and Ulwelling with 13.

Wisconsin scored on 37 of 82 shots from the field for a 45 per cent average. Michigan collected 32 of 79 shots for a 40 per cent mark.

Quarterback Club to Sponsor Bus Service
The Appleton Quarterback club is sponsoring bus service to Sheboygan for Friday night's Terror-Central basketball game. Buses—as many as are needed—will leave the Appleton YMCA, at 5:30 p.m. Friday.

Tickets may be purchased at either the "Y" or at AHS. (The transportation cost for both students and adults will be $1.25.) Fans must buy tickets or register for the trip by 9 p.m. Wednesday.

River Valley conference history offers several encouraging signs for the Terrors.

For example, the last time AHS played a title game with a Sheboygan entry (1957 against North), the Terrors won, 59-58.

Henry Aaron Agrees To Terms for 1960

Milwaukee — General Manager John McHale of the Milwaukee Braves breathed a sigh of relief Monday as slugger Henry Aaron came into the fold for 1960.

With the signing of the National league batting champion, the contract situation brightened considerably for McHale. He has been the target for the ire of players who claim they weren't offered what they are worth.

And indications are that, at least for the present, Aaron, deal with a rash of holdouts, who hit .355 last season, is the highest paid member of the team to report at Bradenton, Fla., Wednesday. Infielder-mate $35,000 last year and was pushing for a raise, which he apparently got.

McHale still has 12 Braves officially classified as holdouts.

They include such stalwarts as Lew Burdette, Warren Spahn, Johnny Logan, Joey Jay, Wes Covington and Joe Adcock.

McHale has denied that he has been making wholesale cuts in the salaries offered to the players.

McHale believes that he and the players aren't too far apart and that more talking is needed. He said there is enough time left, too, to get them signed before he has to deal with a rash of holdouts.

The pitchers and catchers are due to report at Bradenton, Fla., Wednesday. Infielder-mate $35,000 last year and was pushing for a raise, which he apparently got.

McHale still has 12 Braves officially classified as holdouts.

Houston '5' Upsets Bradley, 63 to 58

Robertson Is Held to 6 Goals, But Ties Elgin Baylor's Record

By The Associated Press

Oscar Robertson has another line in major college basketball's record book today, and his top-ranked Cincinnati Bearcats are virtually assured of their third crack at the NCAA championship.

The fabulous Big O, winding up what for him was a mediocre 2-game tour of Texas, managed six field goals Monday night in Cincinnati's 63-54 rout of North Texas State to tie Elgin Baylor's all-time career record of 856 field goals.

But while Oscar was held to 16 points, Houston shoved the Bearcats toward another Missouri Valley conference championship and another NCAA tournament by snapping Bradley's 15-game winning streak, 63-58.

The flub by Bradley, the nation's No. 3 team in the new Associated Press poll, dropped the Braves a game behind Cincinnati with three games to go for each club in their MVC duel. If Cincinnati can win its last three conference games — and it'll be naturally favored over Wichita, Tulsa and Drake — it has the title and an NCAA berth in the bag.

Georgia Tech and Notre Dame officially joined the NCAA tournament family, the Irish (15-7) as an at-large selection for the first round at Lexington, Ky. March 8, and Tech by clinching the Southeastern conference spot with a 69-55 overtime victory over Florida.

Gary Phillips, who held Robertson to 13 points in a game last year, was the Houston hero against Bradley with 30 points. The loss was only the second in 23 games for Bradley, which lost its other to Cincinnati way back on Dec. 22.

With Robertson held to 16 points, 6-9 Paul Hogue was Cincinnati's main attack with 29 points. Two weeks ago, Robertson scored a career high 62 points and hit 23 field goals against North Texas State. This time he was shackled by the defensive play of Ken Boren and Emmett Baker.

FRVC History Offers Terrors Encouragement

have scored a flock of wins in crucial encounters. On at least these seven occasions, the home court advantage was dissolved by a determined visitor; both AHS-Manitowoc games, both Central-Green Bay West games, the second AHS-West contest, the first Central-AHS tilt and the second West-Mantych clash.

"Magic Number"

A third hopeful sign for AHS is the "magic number" possibilities of a 10-4 record. Prior to 1956-7, no club that lost four times had ever won the FRVC title. But, in two of the last three seasons, 10-4 was good enough for an unchallenged crown.

If AHS tops Central, it will mean still another 10-4 titular standard. In the event of an Appleton win, the door will be open for an auspicious FRVC "first" — triple championships.

West could become the other 10-4 entry by beating Fond du Lac. However, that will take a lot of doing, since Fondy has been invincible at home — gaining six straight conference victories.

Central, which has already sewed up at least a co-title (with its 1-point win over West last Saturday), will be favored over AHS on the basis of a better over-all record (12-4 to 11-6), its previous win over the Terrors and the home court (the coaches' preferred site for a game, previous 1959-60 tendencies notwithstanding).

In Appleton's 1-point title win over North three years ago, Jack Ulwelling scored 18 points. Other Terror point-makers were Jim Schulze, 16; Howie Hamann, eight; Mike Ulwelling, seven; Tom Verkuilen, six; and Jack Rademacher and Jerry Olm, two each. They brought Dick Emanuel his only coaching years at AHS.

Central's already clinched titular glory is its first since 1952 - 3 when the Redmen shared the top rung with Appleton. Central, coached then, as now, by Carl Huebner, boasted such players as Bob Krause and John Schrieber. AHS, mentored by Myrlon Seims, was paced by Jerry Hopfersperger and Bob Goemans.

Friday, Central will shoot for its first undisputed title in 11 years.

Georg Thoma, a stocky, 22-year-old mail carrier from Germany's Black Forest, upset the Scandinavian and Soviet favorites in winning the Nordic combined jumping and cross-country skiing with 457.9 points.

The 5-6, 147-pound West German added a fourth place in the cross-country to his first in the jumping to beat Norway's Tormod Knutsen.

Hockey and the weather provided a bright note for the hosts. The American hockey team, placed by Minnesota's Roger Christian's three-goal performance, defeated Sweden 6-3, in the opening round of the final Olympic hockey championship tournament.

The Soviet Union downed scrappy Czechoslovakia, 8-5, and Canada trounced Germany, 12-0, in the other openers.

Pitchers, as a rule, are not only the worlds worst hitters but also the world's worst base runners. It is a puzzle how a fellow who can throw so fast runs so slow.

Here is a hypothetical case of a pitcher snarling things up while trying to conserve his energy at the wrong time. Can you unsnarl this situation?

The Senators are playing the Baltimore Orioles in Washington. It's the bottom of the sixth inning and the bases are filled with two out. With the count three balls and two strikes on Ken Aspromonte, the runners very properly start to advance at top speed, as Milt Pappas begins his windup. The pitch is wide, making the fourth ball. Washington pitcher Russ Kemmerer, coming home from third, sees the pitch is a ball and slows up merely walking toward the plate. Billy Consolo, originally on second, slightly overruns third on reaching the bag. A snap throw from catcher Gus Triandos to

New York — Feature Sports, Inc., the new promotion outfit that holds the contract for the Ingemar Johansson-Floyd Patterson heavyweight title rematch, also may be promoting Archie Moore's next title fight.

Moore was stripped of his title by the NBA Feb. 15 because six months have passed since his last defense.

Trail Only Bearcats In Poll; Indians Crashes Top 20

By The Associated Press

Cincinnati still leads the college basketball parade with the end in sight but it has a new challenger in Ohio State which has moved into second place in the weekly Associated Press poll of sports writers and sportscasters.

Although Oscar Robertson was held to 14 points Saturday, Cincinnati beat Houston, 57-47, to boost its record to 20-1. There is a comfortable 203-point gap between Cincinnati and runner-up Ohio State.

New Faces

Ohio State's victories over Illinois and Michigan State earned enough support to give the Buckeyes the No. 2 spot in a scramble with Bradley and California.

St. Bonaventure advanced into the top 10 for the first time by knocking off Villanova and Marquette.

New faces in the second 10 were New York University (No. 14), St. Louis (No. 16) and Indiana (No. 20) while Ohio university, North Carolina and Illinois dropped out.

Indiana '5' Scores 8th Straight Win

Bellamy Eclipses Andy Phillip's Huff Gym Mark With 42 Points

By the Associated Press
It would seem that eight points would not make a big difference over a basketball season. But that small total has kept Indiana in second place in the Big Ten basketball race instead of the league lead.
Eight points was the total difference between Indiana and its opponents in the first three conference games of the season which the Hoosiers lost.
Since that time, Indiana has won eight straight, but its chances of tying Ohio State for the conference title are slimmer than a violin string.
One-Man Show
Even though Indiana won at Illinois, 92-78, Monday night, the Hoosiers must win their three remaining games and Ohio State must lose its last three to create a deadlock.
Indiana's 6-10 junior, Walt Bellamy, put on a 1-man show at Champagne and sent Illinois spinning to its third straight loss with a 42-point barrage.
Bellamy's total eclipsed the Huff gymnasium record of 40 set by Illinois' Andy Phillip in 1943. Bellamy scored the first five points and had 25 when Indiana took a 48-37 halftime lead.
In other games, Iowa defeated Purdue at Lafayette, 78-68; Northwestern clipped Michigan State, 71-69; at Evanston and Wisconsin made it three straight with an 88-82 overtime victory over winless Michigan at Ann Arbor.
Iowa's triumph came despite 27 points by Terry Dischinger and 25 by Jerry Berkshire.
Northwestern climbed into fourth place with its triumph over MSU. Bill Cacciatore led the Wildcats with 20 points. Horace Walker and Lance Olson had 22 each for the Spartans.
Squaw Valley, Calif.—
"Now all we have to do is beat Germany and the Czechs for second place—but we're shooting for the top," said Coach Jack Riley, beaming happily after his United States Olympic hockey team knocked off Sweden, 6-3.
"We're looking for four straight wins — and a gold medal," said the American coach, whose Yanks Monday joined defending champion Russia and highly rated Canada in opening round victories of the championship round-robin tournament.
Russia turned back a fighting Czechoslovakian team, 8-5, and Canada easily skated past the Germans, 12-0.
None Scheduled
No games are scheduled for today. Competition resumes Wednesday with Russia, Canada, Czechs, Russia tangles with Sweden; and the Americans face Germany.
Before Monday's game, Riley took one look at the hefty Swedes warming up on the ice and quickly subbed Bob McVey, a 200-pounder from Hamden, Conn., for 153-pound Dick Rodenhake, ex-Boston university star.
One of those big Swedes might have fallen on Rodenhake and he'd never have found him," joked Riley.
McVey started on the line that included the Cleary brothers—Bob and Bill—and the trio quickly struck for two of the four American goals scored in the first 20 minutes.

Answer to 'You Call It'

(B) — Console is out but the run scores. The base on balls to the batter with the bases filled entitled the runner on third to score. It made no difference whether he had actually crossed the plate or not before the third out was made.

MacKay Wins Indoor Crown

Beats Savitt
In 5-Set Battle Of Services

New York — National indoor tennis champion Parry MacKay still may not be the most graceful player on a tennis court, but he's a greatly improved one.

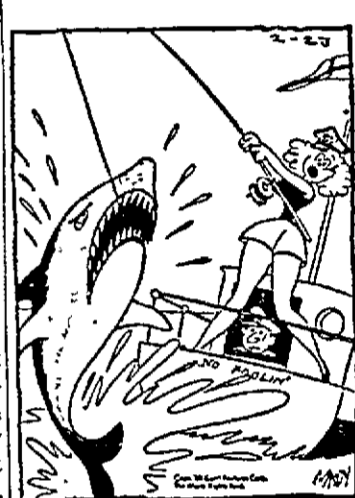

"He's starting to hit with his forehand," observed Don Budge, one of the greatest today. "And that's good. Furthermore, he is tightening up on his second service."
Whatever the reason, MacKay beat cannonball Dick Savitt, 6-2, 2-6, 10-12, 6-1, 6-4, Monday to win the national indoor title.

Savitt, a 31-year-old New York oil company executive, is not playing the circuit, but he won the crown in 1952, in 1958 and lost the final to Alex Olmedo last year.

Any time MacKay and Savitt hook up, it's a battle of services. The final here was no exception. Savitt finished with 28 aces and MacKay had 23. But MacKay was superior when the ball was in play.

Your Problems

Woman Urges Mothers to Keep Drugs Out of Children's Reach

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN: I just returned from a funeral. It was the saddest thing I've ever witnessed — and so unnecessary. My head is splitting, but instead of sitting around weeping, I decided to write you this letter in the hope that such a tragedy might be averted in the future.

A 3-year-old neighbor boy climbed on the bathroom sink, opened the medicine cabinet and helped himself to an assortment of high-powered pills. No doubt he thought it was candy.

His mother found him lying on the bathroom floor but it was too late. He was dead when the ambulance arrived.

This was the only son of a family of four girls. The mother is filled with guilt. She keeps saying over and over, "It's my fault. It's my fault."

I urge every mother who reads this to make a complete check of her household at once. Look in the medicine cabinets, the broom closet, the cupboard. Any liquid or pill-type medicine, cleaning fluid, fly spray or rat poison should be locked up, out of the reach of curious hands. A few moments of checking may spare you the most heartbreaking tragedy of a lifetime.

Thanks, Ann, for letting me get this off my chest. — Sad Friend

Dear Friend: My thanks to you for your letter. I'd like to join in a plea that mothers all over the nation act on your excellent suggestion at once.

DEAR ANN: Will you settle a family fight? Our 10-year-old son is selling his homework. My husband says Nicky is an enterprising kid and will amount to something. I say his materialistic approach to life is shocking and if he's encouraged along these lines he'll be a grasping, greedy adult.

Nicky has always been precocious and gets top marks without too much effort. Last evening when his best buddy left I heard him say "I'll pay you tomorrow — a dime for the arithmetic answers and a nickel for English."

Barbara Rosenberg Tell Troth of Miss Rosenberg, Robert Cihak

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Rosenberg, 1030 W. Commercial street, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Barbara Lee, to Robert F. Cihak, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cihak, 3010 1/2 W. Wisconsin avenue.

The bride-to-be was graduated from Appleton High school and attended Wisconsin State college, Oshkosh. She is employed as a receptionist at Schusters' department stores in Milwaukee.

Her fiancé also is a graduate of Appleton High school and Lawrence college. He is now studying laboratory technology at St. Mary hospital in Milwaukee.

The couple is planning an Oct. 22 wedding.

I asked Nicky what it was all about and he told me. I was shocked and said we'd discuss it when his father came home. We did. His father praised the boy and I lost out completely. If I'm wrong I want to know. If my husband is wrong I think he'll listen to you. Please step forth. — V.J.

Dear V.J.: What with rigged TV, payola and corruption on every side, it's small wonder a 10-year-old would take to selling his homework. Some of our young people are growing up with the philosophy that The Buck is king and how you get it doesn't much matter.

Parents must counteract this 20th century moral decay by setting high standards at home and encouraging personal integrity.

Nicky should be told that selling answers is dishonest and will not be tolerated. He should be encouraged to help his friends and to be of service.

DEAR ANN: I'm 16 and unhappy. A certain fellow takes me out about three times a month. I am crazy about him and he says he likes me very much but never mentions love. The problem is, he has never taken me to a movie, a dance or any place really nice. We only go for rides and wind up necking.

Last week I made up my mind if he didn't take me to a movie I would break up with him. I told him how I felt and he called me a "gold-digger" and left. I miss him very much and wonder now if I did the right thing. — Torch Carrier

Dear Carrier: Use that torch to light the way to a decent relationship. This boy was using you for his own amusement. Don't make the same mistake again. If you want to be treated like a lady you'll have to behave like one.

To learn the knack of feeling comfortable with the opposite sex, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "How To Be Date Bait," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

(Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

Jenny Ann Lindstrom, 21, daughter of actress Ingrid Bergman, was married Monday evening to Fuller E. Callaway III, 28, in Elko, Nev. Jenny Ann is a student at Mills college, Oakland, Calif., and Callaway is business manager of an electronics company in Palo Alto, Calif. They will reside in San Francisco.

Ingrid Bergman's Daughter Marries

San Francisco — Ingrid Bergman's apple-cheeked eldest daughter commuted across San Francisco bay to her Mills college classes with a new name today — Mrs. Fuller E. Callaway III.

The former Jenny Ann Lindstrom, 21, eloped Sunday with Callaway, scion of a Georgia industrial family. Callaway, 28, is business manager of the Watkins Johnson Electronics company in suburban Palo Alto, but lives in San Francisco.

Jenny Ann's faculty and student friends expressed no great surprise when news of the wedding at Elko, Nev., reached them yesterday.

"They met here two years ago when Jenny Ann transferred from the University of Colorado," said a Mills spokesman. "She's a good student and a lovely, lovely girl."

The couple said they were going to Squaw Valley to attend the winter Olympics, but just kept going eastward to Elko, which is 500 miles from San Francisco and 230 miles from Salt Lake City where Jenny's father, Dr. Peter Aron Lindstrom, practices neurosurgery.

Justice of the peace Ted Lunsford performed the ceremony and the witnesses were the jailer and the radio dispatcher.

The couple returned to the Bay area in time for Jenny Ann to attend classes yesterday morning and for her husband to get back to his job.

At Mills, faculty advisers said Jenny Ann would finish the year and get her bachelor of arts degree, as a history major.

Dr. Lindstrom, who was divorced from Jenny's actress mother in 1950, made no comment.

The groom is a Georgia Tech and Harvard graduate and the nephew of Cason J. Callaway, millionaire Georgia planter-industrialist. In his application for a marriage license he listed a 1958 divorce in Juarez, Mexico.

The bride's mother, now married to Swedish businessman and impresario Lars Schmidt, married Italian film director Roberto Rossellini in 1950. The marriage was annulled in July, 1958.

Dr. Lindstrom, who was practicing in Los Angeles at the time of his divorce from Miss Bergman, married Dr. Agnes Rovaneck, a pediatrician, in 1954.

FOR SLOPING SHOULDERS

Sloping shoulders are feminine, but too often clothes are not made to flatter or fit them. This dress by Fira Benenson does both by means of a stand-away collar buttoned to the dress. Cool when unadorned, the neckline lends itself to necklaces or scarves. Make it all in one fabric, or add contrast to the collar. Either way you'll find it easy to make with only 5 basic pieces in the pattern. Choose lightweight wools, shantung, silk, rayon, pique, linen or novelty cottons. From this size chart select the one size best for you. Pattern measurements comparable to ready-to-wear.

Size 16 requires 3 1/2 yards of 36 inch material for dress with 1/2 length sleeves and 1 yard of 36 inch material for contrast.

CONSTANT REMINDERS are inevitable in the table manners department. But they can seem less like nagging if no one particular child is singled out for infractions of the rules. Try saying "Let's all keep our elbows off the table" rather than "Johnny-elbows!" Generalizations may work better than specifics.

Detergents Effective On Dacron

Cold water detergents seem to be more suitable for use in laundering Dacron than wool, according to Margaret Cooper, textile chemist at the University of Wisconsin.

Effects of six cold water detergents on dacron and wool were compared in recent tests. Dacron showed less change than wool through six launderings.

More shrinking and matting was evident on wool. Dacron did not wrinkle or stretch as often does when hot water laundry methods are used. The tests ranked the effects of the detergents on the whiteness and softness of both fibers as well as for shrinking, matting or stretching.

White scarves of 100 per cent wool and 100 per cent dacron were used for the tests. The scarves were worn for two day periods by six different people. They were rotated from person to person after each laundering.

Each scarf was laundered in 68 degree tap water—soaked, rinsed, rolled in a towel and fan dried. The same detergent in amounts specified in the directions was used on the same scarf through the six launderings. After each laundering the scarves were measured for shrinkage.

Will Be Rejected

Once he reaches the age of self-dependence without the understanding of its obligations, without the essential preparation of good manners, pleasant ways, general usefulness to himself and others, he is in for a very unhappy time.

When he interrupts conversations by loudly declaiming his ideas on the subject, or on one he is more interested in at the time, he is going to be snubbed to his shock and amazement. It was not like that at home.

When his classmates pass him and elect another to office, he can't understand it. When the teachers overlook him in favor of another pupil who, he thinks, is a dud, he resents it. Home never pointed out to him that he had to earn his place in the family, in school, among his companions. They gave him the place he took. That is not the way of the world.

There is no use in shielding children from the hard facts of life when they reach the place where they can take them without injury.

Must Learn Early

A small child learns to take "No." He learns that he cannot always be first but must wait for his return. He learns that he has to share all he has with others so they will share with him, whether it's toys, goodies, or friends.

He has to learn that if he hits he must expect to be hit back. The sooner he learns that every act, every word he utters, every attitude he assumes has its consequences

Our Children

Spoiled Youngster Has Adjustment Troubles

BY ANGELO PATRI

Fond parents — and what parents are not? — make a great effort to shield their children from the actual ways of the life about them. Some degree of this is essential.

Babies must be shielded from many phases of existence or they would not continue to exist. Little children, just starting out to explore their surroundings must be shielded from danger, illness, too rough experiences lest they be hurt physically and mentally. But even the little ones must learn the limitations of their behavior in the word of adults lest they get the wrong ideas about life among people.

The child, who from infancy onward is allowed to be and to stay self-centered so that he considers nobody's wishes, wants or needs but his own, has been shielded from the truth about the life he must soon enter on his own power and by the force of his own personality.

DG Actives Test 'Mountain Dew;' Alumnae Meet at Cocktail Party

Saturday evening was party night for members of Delta Gamma Sorority — both actives and alumnae. Alumnae members and their husbands renewed acquaintances at an early evening cocktail party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Meythaler, 910 E. College avenue. The sorority was one of the first in the area to plan an annual social gathering at which husbands are special guests. "DG Mountain Dew" was served at an informal, costume party held in the Terrace room of the Lawrence Memorial union. Party co-chairmen were Jane Rossiter, Minneapolis, Minn., and Julie Esch, Sheboygan while decorations were planned by Betty McNeil, Springfield, O h i o, and Bronte Carpenter, Little Rock, Ark. Chaperones were Mr. and Mrs. Richard Rine and Mr. and Mrs. Allen Hansen, all of Appleton. The coeds and their dates appeared at the party attired in everything from ragged blue jeans and battered straw hats to homespun, "little girl" dresses. Decorations followed the hillbilly theme and provided interesting background for a gay evening.

Guests were Father Bedessen; Mrs. Long, troop organizer of Sacred Heart; Mrs. Paul Mittnacht, South neighborhood chairman, and Mr. and Mrs. Leo Butler who showed slides of Chalk Hills camp and Winnecomac day camp. A panel discussion was given by Linda Butler, Susan Miller, Janet Nelson, Jean Schanke and Ruth Ward, members of Troop 157 of James Madison Junior High school.

In Good Taste Traveler on Train Asks This Query

BY EMILY POST

Dear Mrs. Post: Just recently I took an overnight train trip to another city. Seated beside me was a very nice young woman. I had taken some cookies and candy with me to eat on the trip. I didn't offer any to the young woman beside me as I didn't know whether it was the right thing to do. However, I felt rather selfish sitting there eating and not offering her any. I would like to know what is proper in this situation.

Answer: It can be assumed that if the young woman had wanted to eat during the trip she would have brought her own food and it was not necessary to offer her any of yours, especially if you had not spoken to her.

Unusual Invitation

Dear Mrs. Post: I have received an invitation to a wedding addressed to me alone. My husband is to take part in the wedding and therefore was not included. I would like to know whether this is proper. I feel that in spite of his participation in the wedding, we both should have been included. Am I correct? Am I to answer for myself alone, or should I include his name in the acceptance?

Answer: Most correctly, the invitation should have been addressed to Mr. and Mrs. However, since your husband is taking part in the wedding and his presence taken for granted, the omission was not very serious. At any rate, you answer for yourself alone.

Correct Wear

Dear Mrs. Post: Are soft shirts with attached collars correct with tuxedos instead of the stiff bosomed shirt and wing collar? That is what so many men today seem to be wearing.

Answer: Quite correct in the country or in hot weather. Indeed even in our cities the stiff bosomed shirt and wing collar is being replaced by the pleated shirt and turned down but stiff collar.

Mrs. Anna Klinkner sits at the organ keyboard she has played for 50 years at St. Mary Catholic church, Chilton. She will be honored Saturday at a testimonial dinner in observance of the occasion.

Organist to Mark Golden Anniversary

BY DON KAMPFER
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Chilton — Fifty years as a church organist in the same congregation is the record of Mrs. Anna Klinkner, 505 S. Madison street.

Former and present members of the senior choir of St. Mary Catholic congregation will gather Thursday at the 49'er Steak House, Hilbert, for a testimonial dinner honoring the golden anniversary of their director and leader.

Mrs. Klinkner was 20 years old in February, 1910, when she began her long unbroken tenure at St. Mary church. By that time she had been playing the organ for 15 years.

At the age of five, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bauer, Wrightstown, began taking organ and piano lessons in her home.

Studied Organ

She furthered her knowledge of the complex instrument during her grade school days as a boarding student at St. Agnes convent, Fond du Lac. Long hours of practice and lessons with private tutors qualified her for the position of church organist not long after.

What might have been a crowning achievement for another person merely whetted Mrs. Klinkner's appetite for more knowledge of what was to be her life's work.

About 1918 Mrs. Klinkner began two years of study under the Rev. L. A. Döbelsteen, professor of music at St. Norbert college, West De Pere, and dean of music for the Green Bay diocese. She was a member of a special ladies' class.

While studying at St. Norbert college, she did the arrangements and often performed on "Organ Melodies," an hour long Sunday afternoon radio show originating in Green Bay.

The schooling under Father Döbelsteen gave her a sound foundation of liturgical and concert music and her ambitions turned to teaching music. To qualify for this new endeavor she spent a year and a half studying at the Milwaukee conservatory during the early 1920s.

During her 35-year teaching career, she has taught, she estimates, "a couple thousand" Chilton and surrounding area youths. Her

Opening Lead — H 5

West opened the five of hearts, and East won with the king. East returned the four of hearts. South played the seven, and West won as cheaply as possible — with the eight.

This was a fatal error. West could take the ace of hearts and then the 10, for a total of four defensive tricks, but that was the end. South gratefully took the rest of the tricks, making game and rubber.

West felt aggrieved when his partner looked reproachful. "How could I tell?" West demanded.

Only Chance

Perhaps West couldn't be absolutely sure of the heart position, but he should have known that his only chance to defeat the contract was to take five heart tricks without a moment's delay.

West could see six diamonds and two spade tricks in the dummy. Since South had responded to the opening bid, he surely had the ace of clubs and the queen of spades — the only missing high cards.

How did West expect to defeat the contract?

If West must hope for five heart tricks, he must assume

Table Setting Design From Denmark

Travellers to the Scandinavian countries come home sparkling with inspiration for table settings. So many table settings are shown there, and they're always so imaginative and have such great style. Since the Scandinavians have so special a talent for turning everyday objects into beauty, their most fascinating table settings can be created with the simplest of their dinnerware and glassware, and they are—very often with tableware our stores import from them and make available to us.

This table setting is from an exhibition at the famous Den Permanente in Copenhagen, where the best of Danish arts and crafts are handsomely displayed all year 'round, every item a selection by a jury of leader artist-craftsmen. The smooth surfaces of bowls and plates and goblets contrast with the textures of the linen place mats, the novel streamer running the table length, and the graining of the teak table top. Napkins show a favorite fold — napkins are always folded in unusual ways for Scandinavian tables to make them especially decorative.

Bringing Up Baby

HINTS COLLECTED BY MRS. DAN GERBER, MOTHER OF 5

Doctors who start babies on solids early, don't expect large portions to be consumed. One reason is to give baby plenty of time to get used to spoon-feeding before there is a great nutritional need for solid foods. Knowing this you can offer the first solids in a relaxed frame of mind and not worry about how well they are accepted the first day or the first week by your darling.

Baby's first solid food is usually cereal. And acceptance of Gerber Baby Cereals usually comes easily. That's because they have the delicate flavors babies prefer... plus a creamy-smooth, easy-to-swallow texture when mixed with formula or milk.

Nutritionally speaking, Gerber Cereals are enriched with iron, calcium and important B-vitamins. Good starters are Rice Cereal and Barley Cereal, to be followed by Oatmeal, Mixed Cereal and High Protein Cereal.

If you're a first-time mother, you should find it reassuring to know that no single food is an absolute "must." Certainly baby needs essential nutrients such as protein, certain fats and a variety of vitamins and minerals. But baby can get these nutrients from many different foods. If your baby takes a strong dislike to some fruit, vegetable, meat, etc., there are any number of alternates to choose.

Point to remember: Gerber provides over 50 good-tasting strained foods for easy mealtime planning.

New protective agent — to keep your cherub socially acceptable. Gerber Baby Pants are made of silken-soft Polyvinyl film that's guaranteed water-proof, acid-proof, leak-proof. Most important the pants won't stiffen, will stay soft for the life of the garment. Ample cut to permit free movement and allow for growth. Medium, large, extra large. Gerber Baby Foods, Fremont, Michigan.

Wisconsin Tax Law Allows Fewer Charity Deductions

Differences Between Federal, State Levy Returns Explained

Wisconsin permits deduction of charitable contributions but to a somewhat more limited extent than the federal government. Whereas on your federal income tax return you may in some cases deduct as much as 30 per cent of your income, the Wisconsin deduction for charitable contributions is limited in all cases to 10 per cent of your net income.

The organizations to which deductible gifts may be made are also more limited. Contributions to non-profit religious organizations and national veterans' organizations may be deducted regardless of whether the recipient is operating within Wisconsin, but contributions to other non-profit charitable educational, literary, cemetery and scientific organizations are deductible only if the recipient organization is operating within Wisconsin.

Last of 2-article series

Wisconsin. Gifts to individuals regardless of their need are not deductible for Wisconsin nor federal income tax purposes.

Gifts of property to qualified organizations are treated the same for Wisconsin and federal income tax purposes. You may deduct the fair market value of the gift at the time it was given regardless of the cost of the property to you.

Wisconsin requires, as does the federal government, actual payment, before you may claim a deduction. You may not deduct amounts which you have pledged or promised to pay some time in the future.

Deductible Taxes

Under the Wisconsin income tax you are permitted to deduct only three taxes as such. You may deduct the Wisconsin income taxes actually paid by you during the year and you may also deduct the Federal income and social security taxes paid by you whether through withholding or by direct payment. However, you will ordinarily not be able to deduct the full amount of federal income and social security taxes paid, as these deduction may not exceed 3 per cent of your Wisconsin net income before contributions and before this deduction.

Real estate taxes on residential property occupied by the owner are not deductible on your Wisconsin return. However, interest on a mortgage on your residence may be deducted the same as other interest payments. The 2 per cent charge for paying your Wisconsin income tax in two installments may be deducted in the year paid for both Federal and Wisconsin purposes.

Wisconsin permits deduction of automobile expenses in connection with business travel the same as the federal government. However, if you do not use your car for business, you may not deduct on your Wisconsin return automobile license fees, gasoline taxes or any losses from an accident involving your car.

Medical Deduction

As on your federal return you are permitted to deduct certain medical expenses in computing your Wisconsin income tax. However, the limitations for Wisconsin are fixed dollar amounts rather than percentages of income as on the federal return. For Wisconsin purposes you may deduct amounts paid by you during the tax year for drugs, medical, dental, etc. care of yourself or dependents but the first $75 of such expenses may not be deducted, nor can your total deduction exceed $1,500.

Deductible medical and dental expenses for Wisconsin purposes are generally the same as for federal purposes and include the same items. Premiums paid on medical and hospital insurance are deductible and recoveries under those policies are treated much the same as for federal income tax purposes.

Sick benefits such as described above are not counted as income, with one important exception. Amounts received from your employer or his insurance company for loss of wages while you are absent due to injury or sickness are income to you for Wisconsin but not federal purposes.

Casualty Losses

Wisconsin also permits a deduction for casualty and theft losses. The problems in establishing the amount of your casualty or theft loss are the same for both state and federal and you should take the same steps in order to prove your loss.

Wisconsin permits deduction of trade or business bad debt losses. However, bad debts arising from items of income are not deductible unless the items in question have been reported for taxation.

If you read the free instructions booklets you receive you can probably complete your own tax return. However, if you have any questions not clearly answered by the instructions, then call, visit or write your district office of the assessor of incomes.

400 Persons To Work on VNA Drive

Intensive Phase of Manor Campaign To Start March 1

Four hundred campaign workers have been organized into 80 teams and 16 divisions for the intensive phase of the Peabody Manor $500,000 building fund drive to get underway March 1, Charles L. Dostal, campaign chairman, announced today.

This general solicitation section will work under the direction of five associate chairmen, Mrs. D. W. Curtin, Kimberly, Mrs. Eugene L. Pierce, Mrs. Leonard E. Pasiek, Robert J. Spooner and Richard A. Stack, all of Appleton.

The goal for this section of the campaign has been established at $93,315, Dostal said.

The 16 division leaders are Richard M. Uehling, William C. Borsum, R. Barton Hammond, Dexter Wolfe, Ralph Buesing, Harvey A. Buntrock, Frederick C. Schaeffer, Patrick Coughlin, Mrs. Edward Pfeifferle, Mrs. Fred S. Marshall, Mrs. Ralph Kenney, Mrs. A. G. Sharpe, Mrs. M. J. Schulenburg, all of Appleton; Daniel J. Burns, Kimberly; Mrs. Genevieve Andersen, Kaukauna; and Mrs. Gerald Jolin, route 3, Appleton.

Obscenity Is Topic of Talk Wednesday

Mailing of obscene material to children will be discussed at a joint meeting of the Appleton Woman's club and the Madison school Parent-Teachers association at 8 p.m. Wednesday.

Mrs. George N. Mueller of Milwaukee, a junior director of the Wisconsin Federation of Women's Clubs, will lead the discussion. She recently attended a national conference on the obscenity problem.

Postmaster General Arthur Summerfield has said that because of the mounting volume of obscenity being mailed, it is expected that by 1963 one out of every 18 school age children will be the target of purveyors of filth "unless decent members of society decree otherwise."

There have been complaints of obscenity mailed to Appleton children. Three weeks ago, a father reported to Postmaster Francis Sumnicht that his son had received an obscene magazine.

The post office stops the mailing of known obscene matter, but it cannot screen all mail. When complaints are received, obscenity can be traced to its source.

FVL Parents to Meet

Parents and teachers of Fox Valley Lutheran High school will have individual conferences from 7 to 10 p.m. Wednesday. The Parent-Teachers association will meet at 8 p.m. and discuss plans for the school's accreditation.

Spooner, all of Appleton, and Mrs. D. W. Curtin, Kimberly. Mrs. Leonard E. Pasiek, Appleton, the fifth associate chairman, was not present when the picture was taken. These people will direct activities of 400 campaign workers in the intensive phase of the drive which opens March 1.

Request $145,000 To Furnish New Menasha Center

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison — Gov. Gaylord Nelson today recommended that the state building commission appropriate $145,000 to pay for equipment and furnishings of the new University of Wisconsin extension center now being built in the town of Menasha.

The legislature last year authorized the commission to provide the money but did not actually appropriate it.

The governor said he realizes that the commission fund balance is low but he urged approval of the request of the university to permit the center to open for classes in the fall. The commission probably will approve the request later today through a diversion of money from previous approved building programs.

Sunday Marks Heart Drive

630 Volunteers Will Seek $3,000 For Research

The Appleton Heart Sunday drive will close the major part of this year's campaign Sunday when 630 volunteer workers make calls on approximately 12,600 homes.

A goal of $8,500 has been set for the drive. Last year's goal was $7,000, but only $5,000 was taken in.

One hundred heart cannisters have been placed throughout Appleton. A cannister at a bowling alley is set up with a request that anyone getting a blow on the tenth frame contribute a dime.

Will Leave Envelopes. The Sunday solicitation is expected to bring in between $2,000 and $3,000. Several memorial gifts already have been received, and the business solicitation was held Feb. 9 to 16. Special gifts are being solicited throughout February.

Envelopes addressed to city Campaign Chairman Norman Beyer will be left at homes Sunday if volunteer workers find no one is home. Campaign funds are turned over to the Wisconsin Heart association and are used to sponsor research projects.

In many instances, graduate student doctors are assisted financially in work on heart disease. Current research centers around electronics used in treating heart diseases.

Tabulation of 1960 returns will be completed March 5.

Plan Workshop On Creativity

Consultant Will Conduct Session At Elks Club

Dr. G. Herbert True, a management consultant, will conduct an all-day "Idea Workshop on Creativity" at the Appleton Elks club March 10.

Answers to such questions as: "What is Your Creativity Quotient?" and "What Should it Be?" will be answered for members of the Fox Valley Chapter of the Society for the Advancement of Management.

Percy Menning, society treasurer, is in charge of reservations. The program was arranged by the group's director of conferences, Fred W. Grupe, of Marathon Division of American Can company.

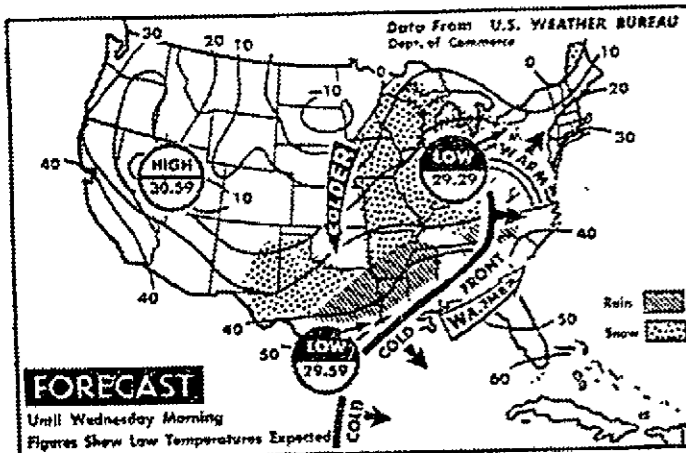

The all-day program runs from 8:30 a.m. to 4:10 p.m.

True is a special consultant on creative behavior to Trans-World airlines, Miles laboratories, the air force, the Army Command and General Staff college, American Management association and the American Institute of Baking.

He is president of Sterling Artists of America and vice president of Visual Research, Inc.

Registration for the April 5 election closes March 23.

There were 19,380 voters registered for the last spring election.

It Will be Colder Tonight in the southern plains and lower Mississippi valley; warmer from northwest Florida to Illinois and Indiana. Snow is forecast for the central Mississippi and Ohio valleys with rain or snow in the Tennessee valley. Snow flurries are expected in northern Texas and northern Maine while rain is forecast from southeastern Texas through northern Louisiana and Mississippi.

Fox Cities Snow Flurries To Continue

Gentle flurries added traces of snow to the Fox Cities mantle of white today. The weatherman says flurries will continue into Thursday.

Spring, however, can't be far away. Proof is the run of daily temperatures. The strength of the sun and the high of 29 Monday was enough to melt and dry sidewalks. The low overnight was 7, and zero in outlying Fox Cities areas, but the mercury was back to 23 at 10:30 a.m. today.

The Fox Cities picture could change if the cell in the Great Plains decides to move this way.

Fresh snowstorms raked wide sections of the plains states today, with blizzard conditions in some areas.

Gusty northerly winds, heavy snow and near zero temperatures — creating blizzard conditions — were reported along the southern Nebraska border southward through most of west and central Kansas and the Oklahoma-Texas panhandle. The

How to get those 16,000,000 new jobs we need in the Sixties — without inflation

Today we have 65 million people at work. Ten years from now we'll have 81 million people at work. These new jobs can be provided because our swelling population will be needing new buildings, new roads, new products, new services—more of everything.

Creating these 16 million new jobs and financing all this growth is going to take dollars.

If we don't take steps now to stabilize the purchasing power of the dollar, we run the risk of another round of inflation with prices going still higher and purchasing power of paychecks dropping even lower.

There are two equally important ways of providing this growth money without inflation:

individual savings... and prudent government spending. And one can't do the job without the other.

Individual savings are usually thought of in a personal sense—something we do just for ourselves and our family's future. But life insurance and other forms of savings do much more. They will help finance the millions of new jobs we're going to need in the Sixties. And because these dollars we save are dollars we don't spend now, they also help curb inflation and help preserve the purchasing power of the dollar.

Prudent government spending. Of course, government must provide for many projects and services in the Sixties. But prudent government spending may require that some projects, however desirable, either have to be reduced or postponed... or taxes increased to pay for them. We can all help by letting our representatives know that we expect government to live within its income and thus help preserve the value of the dollar in this expansion.

If we step up our savings... and insist on prudent government spending, we can enjoy the greatest expansion we've ever known. And we can get those 16 million jobs without inflation.

Brought to you in the interest of every American who is concerned with preserving the value of the dollar

Relocation of Post Office Urged By Neenah Mayor

Proposed Addition Does Not Expand Lobby, Improve Parking

Neenah—Preliminary plans for an addition to the Neenah post office, now being considered by the regional post office headquarters at Minneapolis, have brought protests from city officials and business people.

The protesters are not against the expansion of the post office, which they feel is far overdue, but in expanding only the working space without any improvements for the public.

Suggestions have been made that a new building be erected at a different location in the near downtown area rather than to expand the present building.

Writes Letters
Mayor Bell today said he had sent letters to Sen. Wiley, Sen. Proxmire and Rep. Van Pelt Monday as well as a letter to the postal official in charge of the expansion program at Minneapolis.

The mayor called it "ridiculous to add to the work space and nothing for the public." He said no provision had been made for better parking facilities in the proposed expansion plan and he called attention to the post office location on S. Commercial street, the major north-south artery of the city.

The traffic on S. Commercial street is extremely heavy and post office patrons have to "struggle with heavy traffic whenever they have business to transact at the post office."

He called attention to the very small lobby for patrons and said since 1916, when the post office was built, the city has trebled in population and the postal business has increased 100-fold.

Receives Plans
Postal receipts, he said, have gone over $400,000 per year. The mayor this morning indicated he felt a new building in an area off such a busy thoroughfare, which would provide the needed working space and better lobby and parking facilities, would be better than expanding the present structure.

Preliminary plans for the addition were received by Postmaster George Rasmussen in January with a request for comments on these particular plans and photographs of the present building. He complied with these requests and has returned the plans to the regional office.

The present post office is 80 by 38 feet in size and the new proposed addition is 84 by 110 feet. To the present working space of 1,520 square feet for the handling and dispatching of mail would be added a new mail loading platform of 660 square feet and an additional working room area of 7,890 square feet. This would make

National Guard Test Alert Called Success

Transportation Unit, Company E Report Quick Response to Call

Neenah — National guard officials termed quite successful the response in the test alert called unexpectedly late Monday afternoon by 32nd Division officers.

Lt. Col. Donald Raiche, commander of the 158th Transportation battalion, received his call shortly after 5 p.m. Monday and immediately notified the various company commanders at Neenah, Prairie du Chien and Green Bay.

Headquarters company, commanded by Capt. William Westenberg and quartered at S. A. Cook armory here, had a turnout of nine officers, one warrant officer and 82 enlisted men on hand by 8 p.m.

Some of the men had to leave their jobs in various mills here and others had to come from their homes in Brillion, Chilton and De Pere. The emergency alert procedures were reviewed after the men reported. The Headquarters company has its regular drill Wednesday nights.

A telephone report at 8:30 p.m. showed that 21 officers, three warrant officers and 372 men of the battalion had reported and mail reports as of midnight showed that an even greater number has reported. The unit has a strength of 27 officers, three warrant officers and 477 enlisted men.

Company E Turnout
Company E, which had scheduled a Muster day open house as part of its Monday night drill, received its call about 5 p.m. and its men began reporting immediately. By 8 p.m. all but three men were present. The company had five officers and 124 men on hand for the alert.

Weather and limited parking facilities because of the alert conflicted with the open house but about 80 persons attended and two young men, Donald Peterson and Carl Klitzke, both of Neenah, enlisted.

Master Sgt. Joseph Haag said that persons wishing to enlist in the national guard company may contact him at the S. A. Cook armory during the day or at the Monday night drills.

Tell Way to Treat Fabrics Against Fire

Neenah — Directions for a flame-resistant solution to treat clothing have been listed by Miss Lois Klusmeyer, county home agent. Children's clothes, aprons, draperies, bathrobes, ironing board covers and pot holders are good items to make fire resistant.

Most homemade solutions will wash out, so they will need to be replaced with each laundering. Of the synthetic fibers, only rayon can be treated to be flame resistant.

One solution that works well on all except rayon and the new wash and wear cottons is made with three ounces boric acid, seven ounces borax and two quarts of water. Stir a little water into the boric acid to make a paste. Then add the paste and borax to hot water and stir.

For rayon and wash and wear clothes, use 12 ounces ammonium phosphate stirred in two quarts of water.

The solutions are added to garments by dipping, spraying or sprinkling. When you wash curtains and draperies, just dip them into the solution after the last rinse. When nearly dry, iron with a moderately warm iron so the solution won't stick to the iron.

Sandwiches in Lunch Pails Stay Fresh with FRESHrap

Opening and eating contents of the noon lunch pail can be a daily treat for Dad and the kids, or it can be a monotonous chore best finished in a hurry.

Sandwiches, of course, are the mainstay of any box lunch; for how else can one pack so much nutrition into such easy-to-eat form.

Feature 'Gay Nineties' Entertainment At Neenah Golden Agers' 10th Banquet

Gold, Silver and White Floral arrangements decorated tables at Menasha Elks club Monday evening for the 10th anniversary banquet of Neenah Golden Age club. Golden Agers from Manitowoc, Sheboygan, Oshkosh, Appleton, Menasha and Sheboygan Falls joined the Neenah club for its dinner and program, featuring entertainment in the 1890 flavor. Receiving his boutonniere from Mrs. Ruth Stolz, Sheboygan Falls, upper left, is Otto Reichert, Sheboygan Falls, while Mrs. Ida Snell, Oshkosh, and Charles Becker, Neenah, watch. Four floor shows were interspersed with dancing and a penny arcade challenging the skills of partygoers. "Two Black Crows," a black face comedy act, was presented by Bill Shockley and Carl Ziem, lower left, for the second show. Ballads and tear-jerking lamentations of yesteryear were sung by Miss Mary Aderhold, lower center, featured as the "Belle of the Ball" for the third show. Fishing for a prize at the fish pond, one of the booths in the penny arcade, lower right, is Mrs. Ed Block. Other entertainment included a barbershop quartet, a specialty number of Fred Nixon, and a "Gags and Dolls" production. Masters of ceremonies were Bill Miller, Neenah Recreation department director and Golden Age club leader, and James Hrubceky of the Neenah recreation department.

Girls Club Will Hold Banquet

Neenah — March activities, including a mother-daughter banquet, were planned by Bettina Theta Rho Girls club Monday evening. The banquet is planned for March 12, when the winner of the United Nations pilgrimage contest will be announced. Sharon Moore, decorations chairman, will be assisted by Betty Forrest. Lana Schliem is food chairman and Jan Badtke, program chairman.

The United Nations test will be given under the direction of Mrs. Victor Fritz, vice grand of Rebekah lodge, at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday at Odd Fellows hall.

Jan Badtke will be chairman of a bake sale to be held March 19. Refreshments will be served at Betty Rebekah lodge's March 4 meeting by Justine Mantor, chairman, Betty Forrest, Pauline Larson and Paula Hudson.

A chili supper will be held from 4:30 to 7 p.m. Saturday at Odd Fellows hall. Proceeds will be used for the United Nations trip.

Daily Care of Appliances Has Best Results

Neenah — Daily care of small electric appliances gives the best operation over a long period of time. To keep your electric mixer sparkling, wash the beaters after use and wipe the stationary parts with a damp cloth.

A mixer should always be started on a low speed, since heavy batters put an extra strain on the motor. Speed can be increased as the mixture becomes blended.

Chrome toaster finishes should be cleaned with a damp cloth. Don't immerse the appliance in water. A small paint brush can be used to remove crumbs from the inside of the toaster.

Shaking a toaster upside down or probing the interior with a sharp instrument is apt to damage the coils, warns Miss Lois Klusmeyer, county home agent.

Educator Reports TV Effects on Your Child's Grades, Life

Oshkosh — "Be consistent — throw them in bed every night," Howard C. Hanson, chairman of Ripon college speech department, advised in a recent talk on television and children for Oshkosh branch of American Association of University Women.

Terming television as an irresistible force and children, immovable objects, Hanson summarized 12 studies of the effects of television during the last 10 years. All studies indicated that indifference to television is dangerous.

Sixteen experts in solving juvenile problems were quizzed in 1955. They determined television programs are not responsible for juvenile delinquency; however, they may increase the intensity of emotional upsets or disturbances. For this reason, experts would put a taboo on programs producing anxiety or depression.

Their idea of a good program is one with active, lively, human drama aimed at the growth and development of the child. Most westerns are acceptable but there are too many crime and detective programs.

'Adults Only' Suppose television shows were labeled "adults only." No, say the experts, that would only add to the lure.

Although experts find the effect of television on school work not alarming, they all agree television time should be controlled and the child's choice of program should be compromised by parental guidance.

What about parental problems with television? It conflicts with mealtime and bedtime. Hanson pointed out there has been developed the television meal, but there is no television bed.

"It interferes with homework." Parental studies revealed that one-third of those questioned separate their child from the set so homework, chores and outdoor play can be worked in.

Parents' Complaints

The chief parental complaints are television is time consuming, interferes with the social life of the home, especially conversation, is creating a growing insensibility to human suffering in children and interferes with the child's extra reading.

Parents admit some television benefits, however. They feel it is educational, stimulates new ideas, quiets children, improves their vocabulary, keeps children at home, strengthens family ties and keeps children informed of current affairs.

Prefer Spanking

And what about the children? By the time they are in the sixth grade they are spending equal time between television and school and at least half of the children questioned would prefer a spanking to a black-out of their favorite program.

Children are drawn to television more than to any other leisure-time activity, but as they get older they are divided on the benefits they receive from the set. High schoolers find they get learning helps and want more biographies, literature, travel, science and arts.

Meanwhile educators have been gleaming statistics on the study habits of youthful television watchers. In the past decade they have discovered elementary pupils hover around 19 to 20 hours per week of television watching; high schoolers 13 to 14 hours; and parents, 19 to 20 hours. Teachers have increased their weekly television viewing from nine hours in 1951 to 12 hours in 1958 — the only group that showed a noticeable increase.

Damage Health

Educators' fears that television would damage a child's health have been moderated. Vision has not been impaired. Play and sleep patterns have not been upset. Recreation and hobbies persist and continue. They have found some reduction in creative activity, physical play and problem behavior and an increase in emotional problems.

The fact remains, however, that excessive viewing influences academic attainment, but not other activities, Hanson reported. They found 20 hours of television a week is not detrimental to grade achievement or pleasure reading.

VFW Has Report On Legislation

Neenah — A review of new legislation pertaining to veterans was given by Mrs. Mary-je Hawkins at Hubbard-Peterson Veterans of Foreign Wars auxiliary's Thursday meeting at Whiting Boat-house.

A contribution was voted to the national home at Eaton Rapids, Mich. Plans were made to attend the Feb. 28 sixth district meeting in Oshkosh.

Neenah Residents Visit Relatives In Western States

Neenah — Mr. and Mrs. August Smith and Miss Dorothy Marble of 304 and 306 Smith street, left Saturday for California and Texas. They will visit Mrs. Smith's nephew, David Akstulewicz, Oceanside, Calif.; Mr. Smith's brother, William Smith, Whittier, Calif.; Mrs. Smith's brother, Harold Taplin, Pasadena, Texas; and Miss Marble's brother, Clayton Marble, Buchanan Dam, Texas.

Librarians report greater circulations than formerly. Reading habits have not changed, they say, but the quality of reading has changed for the better.

Television - Grades

There is a correlation between television and grade achievement that cannot be ignored. Probes revealed that high achievers watch television an average of eight and one-half hours per week while the low achievers average 19 hours. The high achievers demand purposeful programs while the low achievers prefer the hero-villain type. The high achievers spend four hours in voluntary reading while the low spend 1.1 hours. The high read more intelligently demanding books and the low still read more than adults.

Hanson said, "Television reduces the amount of effort, makes it easy and attractive for one who wants to take the easy approach. Conventional television programs demand very little, but this also is true of light reading. It is a comforting distraction from fatigues and anxieties, a refresher rather than an opiate."

"Television watching habits are a good index of a person's desire for learning. It is important that television not be watched thoughtlessly. That is why thoughtful parents are in revolt against shoddy programming."

'Mardi Gras' Party

Menasha School Survey

Curricular Evaluation Urges Closer Council-Board Relation

Menasha — At the outset of its survey of the Menasha public school system, the Northwestern university curriculum study team posed questions for which it supplied answers and made three general suggestions.

This is the first in a series of articles on the evaluation of Menasha Public schools by Northwestern university's education department. Dr. Jack Childress and Dr. John Lee, who headed the survey last spring, will discuss the report Saturday with the board of education, PTA groups and citizens. The meeting will begin at 9 a.m. in the high school.

The curriculum study team posed questions for which it supplied answers and made three general suggestions.

Leading the latter is that, since the board of education and common council both are concerned with the schools' welfare and since finance is a prime consideration, "we recommend board members endeavor to find ways in which council members can be made more fully aware of the purposes and needs of a good educational program and made conscious that the philosophy and values of the Menasha community almost inevitably will lead to an expansion of and an increase in the cost of educational offerings for children and youth during the 1960's."

At budget time in 1958 and 1959, the common council ordered the board of education to cut from its budget requests. The board recently sliced $32,100 from its 1960 budget but the council continued its demand to hold to $40,000 less than asked, or a total of $872,955.

Pressure on Council

Last week, in the face of mounting civic pressure, aldermen relented and approved another $7,900 for school purposes. The town of Menasha has 26 years of nursing experience and one year in post graduate work in psychiatrics at the Cook county hospital, Ill. She is a graduate of the Evangelical Deaconess hospital, school of nursing, Milwaukee.

She was relief and night supervisor at the Evangelical Deaconess hospital for 11 years. She took public health and administration work at Marquette university in 1946 and became Plymouth's first city nurse in 1948. She is a native of Hales Corners.

Klein Group to Meet

a total working space area of 10,160 square feet.

The lock box area would be changed but the lobby size would remain about the same as it is now in the preliminary proposed plans.

A driveway for patrons and parking for several cars off S. Commercial street along the south side of the building is suggested in the preliminary plans. Trucks with mail would approach the post office from Franklin avenue rather than W. Columbian avenue as at present.

More Land Needed

Additional land would have to be obtained for the extension to the west along W. Columbian avenue and also on the south side of the post office at the rear for the loading and unloading of mail trucks and for employee parking.

The city now owns the parking lot on Franklin avenue which would give access to the post office and which is used for parking by some of the 41 post office employees.

Postmaster Rasmussen indicated recently that Neenah's receipts from stamp sales and metered postage last year was 31.8 per cent higher than in the previous year.

A survey team spent several days here in August checking over the recent post office and the working space conditions. During the Christmas rush the basement is used for package storage until dispatch or delivery because of the lack of working space.

One suggestion made was that with a new building, the post office could offer drive-in mailing service as well as better parking for patrons.

Wonderful support. Wonderful comfort. And it will last and last and last—as long as you do, most likely.

BUY THIS ONE IF you won't be upset if things begin to pop

Maybe a spring pokes up through the padding. Maybe the ticking tears or the mattress sags. Things like that do happen with a cheap mattress. Your common sense tells you, nobody can build in quality at a cut price.

BUY THIS ONE IF you realize you'll have to replace it fairly soon

Naturally, a mattress made to sell for so little can't be guaranteed to last. That's why buying a "bargain" is actually the expensive way to buy. In the long run it costs you considerably more in dollars—and dollars can't measure the difference in good comfortable sleep.

BUY THIS ONE IF you'd just as soon save yourself money

Unlike cheap mattresses, the Posturepedic is guaranteed... guaranteed for at least ten years. (Twenty if you buy a matching foundation.) Still only $79.50 in spite of inflation... in the long run, a Posturepedic actually saves you money. Convenient credit terms are available.

11 Frosh Clubs Enter Annual Cage Tourney

3 Games Kick Off Play March 3 at St. Mary Court

Menasha — Eleven teams comprising the largest field in history — will compete in the 12th annual Diocesan freshman basketball tournament which begins March 3 at the St. Mary gym.

The field includes freshman teams from all six Fox Valley Catholic conference schools, newcomers Xavier of Appleton, Lourdes of Oshkosh and St. Joseph of Fond du Lac and St. John of Antigo and St. Gregory of St. Nazianz.

There will be a new champion crowned since St. Mary of Appleton, the titlist four straight years, no longer has a team because of the establishment of Xavier.

Springs of Fond du Lac and Penning's of De Pere will clash at 6 p.m. on March 3. St. Joseph of Fond du Lac and the host Zephyrs square off at 8 p.m. and Lourdes of Oshkosh and St. Gregory of St. Nazianz will vie at 7 p.m.

Games for Friday, March 4, will have Prentre playing the Springs - Penning's winner at 4 p.m., Little Chute St. John versus the Lourdes - St. Gregory winner at 6:15, Appleton Xavier versus Antigo St. John at 7:15 and Marinette Central versus the St. Mary - Fondy St. Joseph winner at 8:15.

Semi-finals will be played Sunday afternoon, March 6, with the finals and third place game set for that evening.

Farm Bureau Gives Program On Investment

'Barnyard Economics' Explained at Annual 'Add a Million' Talks

Black Creek — Decisive steps in the program of "barnyard economics" for future farm investment and profits were outlined by a University of Wisconsin specialist for Outagamie county Farm Bureau members recently.

After taking a farm problem and looking at it from all angles we must then analyze, Glen Pulver told the gathering. His talk was part of a day-long "Add a Million" conference presented annually. In the analysis of a farm change, the farmer must consider the added cost of the change and what return it will bring to him, Pulver said. "We've added costs through greater land purchases but we haven't gotten a great return," he said.

If a farmer takes out a loan to cover a tractor he must consider that the tractor will not increase his profit. Principal and interest on such a loan must be covered by existing income, he said.

Compare Alternatives On the other hand, he said, if a farmer takes out a loan for fertilizer, which will mean increased yields and more profit, he can pay the principal and interest through newly-acquired profit. The farmer doesn't have to meet the payment from existing income, he added.

Before a farmer makes a move he must compare his alternatives, Pulver said. He must decide what he can do with the finances he has at hand.

In considering a problem, Pulver said, a farmer must list his resources, measure his productivity, know how much livestock he has and then consider possible solutions to his problems.

Modern Plowing Figures in Horse Mishap

Darboy — Modern snow removal appears to have contributed to an accident involving a boy riding a horse.

Michael Jonen, 11, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sylvester Jonen, route 4, Appleton, is at St. Elizabeth hospital being treated for torn knee ligaments and muscles.

He was riding a horse into Darboy Saturday afternoon when he came too close to a snow bank in which was hidden the support pole of a mail box.

Apparently a snow plow had broken off the mail box leaving the jagged support pipe protruding from the snow bank. The jagged edge injured the boy's leg.

Dr. Harry F. Lewis, left, vice president of the Institute of Paper Chemistry, talks with Gilbert K. Dickerman, director of corporate planning for the Consolidated Water Power and Paper company, Wisconsin Rapids, during the 45th annual meeting of the Technical Association of the Pulp and Paper Industry in New York. TAPPI met Monday at the Hotel Commodore as part of paper week activities.

Rape, Shooting Charges

Spanbauer to Return For Green Bay Trial

Post-Crescent News Service Green Bay — David Spanbauer, Oshkosh, will be brought to Green Bay from Milwaukee for immediate prosecution of the shooting of Alton Cardinal, 1093 Reed street, and the sexual assault on his 16-year-old babysitter.

Dist. Atty. Alexander Grant and detective Capt. W. R. Gilsdorf went to Milwaukee today to secure custody of the 19-year-old Oshkosh man.

The youth undoubtedly will be taken into court Wednesday morning.

Warrants Issued When Spanbauer is brought to court here, warrants for crimes he has admitted in Appleton, Neenah, Milwaukee, and Wauwatosa will be consolidated with the charges here. The young man suddenly offered to "make a clean breast of things" and confessed to the sex crimes in other cities during further questioning about Wauwatosa burglaries on Saturday.

Warrants were issued Monday at request of Walter Hendricks, Appleton police chief and Irving Stulp, Neenah police chief, for charges against Spanbauer in the two cities.

Spanbauer is charged with attempted rape, armed robbery and burglary in Appleton warrants for incidents leading to the attempted rape of a 13-year-old girl Jan. 12, and for burglary and theft at the W. K. Ford home, 1200 W. Brewster street on Jan. 3.

Warrants were issued for breaking and entering and armed robbery as the result of a Jan. 4 holdup at the home of Winifred Knutson, 146 Meade street, Neenah.

Spanbauer is held on $5,000 bond. He was bound over to municipal court in Milwaukee after waiving preliminary hearing on the Wauwatosa burglary warrant Saturday morning.

The charges were dismissed today in district court and will be incorporated in a Brown county complaint.

Grant on Monday announced the Brown county charges against Spanbauer as armed robbery, for taking $16 from the baby sitter at gunpoint before the sexual attack; rape; and injury by conduct regardless of life, for the shooting of Cardinal when his arrival at his home interrupted the assault on the girl.

Cardinal was in a Green Bay hospital for 13 days after being shot in the chin during the outbreak of crime at his home on the night of Jan. 12.

Spanbauer, whose admitted series of crimes started at the beginning of this year, does not have a criminal record, according to Gilsdorf.

It is known, however, that he had come to the attention of authorities while a juvenile.

Pair Flees Honor Farm For Two Hours

Post-Crescent News Service Green Bay — Two hours of freedom was the limit for two reformatory trustees who walked away from the Oneida honor farm Monday afternoon. Leaving a distinct trail in deep snow, they were captured within two hours by two Brown county policemen.

The escapees were Roman Drefcinski, 18, Stevens Point, and Terri C. Nelson, 19, Chelek. They face additional sentences for the escape, although each was serving comparatively short terms. Nelson was due to go before the parole board next month.

"They couldn't go any farther," said Brown County Sgt. Donald Landry. He and Patrolman Ralph Willard found them huddled at the edge of a woods next to a clearing. Apparently acting on a sudden impulse, Drefcinski and Nelson fled from a work crew shoveling snow near a barn on the reformatory farm about 2 p.m.

Drefcinski is serving a sentence for burglary in Portage county. Nelson was sentenced from Barron county for burglary.

Mrs. August Seefeldt Succumbs at 98

Mrs. August Seefeldt, 98, route 2, Seymour, died at her home Monday morning after a short illness.

Survivors include two daughters, Mrs. Julius Veisner, Appleton, and Mrs. Wesley Meetz, Green Bay; two sons, Ferdinand, with whom she made her home, and Dan, also of route 2, Seymour; 17 grandchildren and 21 great-grandchildren.

2 Fined for Topsy Driving

Waupaca, Oshkosh Men Pay $100, Lose Licenses

Two men have been fined $100 each and will lose their drivers' licenses for a year after pleading guilty to drunken driving charges.

Fined were Garth Neubauer, 23, of 522 Granite street, Waupaca, and Charles F. Gams, 44, of 2101 Doty street, Oshkosh.

Neubauer pleaded guilty before Justice George Whalen at Waupaca Saturday. He was arrested by Waupaca police after they noted his erratic driving on Maple street. He tested .19 on the breathalyzer.

Gams pleaded guilty before Herbert J. Mueller, acting municipal judge, at Oshkosh this morning. Gams was arrested at 2 p.m. Monday on Oregon street in Oshkosh after he forced the car of an off-duty county patrolman off the street. The patrolman stopped Gams and then called city police, who made the arrest.

Gams tested .15 on the breathalyzer. A reading of .15 is considered evidence of intoxication.

Today's Deaths

Edmund A. Thomsen Edmund A. Thomsen, 66, Elderon, died at 10:30 a.m. Monday at his home after a long illness. He was born Feb. 15, 1894, in the town of Maple Valley, Shawano county, and had lived in Elderon since 1918. For the last 10 years he was a barber there.

City Requests Answered

Planning Not Far Enough for Advice

Six requests from Appleton have brought replies from the Fox Valley Regional Planning commission's planner, Kenneth L. Schellie, that not enough progress in planning has been made to answer five of them. The requests were made between 1958 and last month.

The city wanted to know about completion of official area maps and Schellie says they'll be ready by July, 1961.

about a thoroughfare from Wisconsin avenue south to W. Prospect avenue (along the general route of County Trunk A), thoroughfares at the east end of College avenue bridge, whether Franklin or Washington street should be extended in the vicinity of N. State street and location of a new high level bridge west of Memorial drive.

Too Much Change To all of these Schellie said that existing or potential elements of the thoroughfare system of Appleton and adjoining territory are involved. To make a planning decision now, without benefit of planning studies, would be inadvisable. Any recommendation, Schellie continues, would create substantial dislocation of existing uses and traffic patterns, producing an impact on Appleton beyond the specific locations.

Schellie asked the city to withhold the requests until the thoroughfares studies are sufficiently along—possibly in the spring of 1961.

The city also wanted an opinion on a request to rezone 50 acres near relocated Highway 41 and N. Meade street. A memorandum, written by Schellie associate W. C. Depew, Jr., indicates that the potential of the tract may fall into industrial type, but no recommendation for rezoning from agricultural to industrial can be made now because there is no land use plan for the area.

Woman Skater Charges Coach Neglected Team

Squaw Valley, Calif. — Jeanne Omelenchuk of Decatur, Mich., said Coach Ed Schroeder had failed to turn up for many practice sessions and had not given the women skaters the guidance they would need to succeed in the games.

A member of the U.S. women's speed skating team charged today that her coach had neglected the team so badly that its chances in the Winter Olympics were wrecked.

Speaking to a reporter before today's 3,000-meter event for women, Mrs. Omelenchuk looked around the skating oval and said:

"Where is he? This is the way it's been.

"The Russian coaches have been out here with their girls every day, taking down lap times and even keeping track of what their skaters eat. But our girls in the 3,000 don't even know what pace they should set because they have never been timed in practice."

Jack Paar Fan Calls Jingo a Jerk, Clod

Kimberly Man Takes Exception to Writer's Dim View of TV Emcee

BY JINGO

Any kind of writing, but especially writing for a newspaper, is an act in the void. The writer can never be sure he is being read unless he receives letters from his readers—even letters that call him a clod or a jerk.

Jingo has received just such a letter from E. L. "Bud" Wichman, of 342 S. Helen street, Kimberly, which crused mixed reactions — happiness over being noticed, sadness over being called a clod and a jerk. However, critics always have been called names, even the very best — fatheads, assassins, etc.

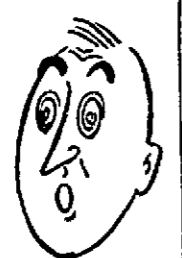

Wichman is a Jack Paar fan who claimed Jingo wouldn't give certain performers a good review for "making a Cadillac of a marshmallow." Try him, Bud. Where can he see the act? The meat of Bud's epistle comes — after questioning

Jingo's humanity, calling him a clod and a character and declaring he's such a jerk as to send the birds south which route Bud recommends for Jingo—

He writes, "A few nights ago, Jingo was once again jumping up and down on Jack Paar's back. I believe Jack had every right to walk out on NBC. And everyone I talk to seems to agree. (Even people who don't care for the 'Tonight' show seem to think he deserves better treatment than the network afforded him.) Jingo, on the other hand, doesn't seem to care for the Jack Paar show, or maybe he just doesn't like the man Jack Paar. In any case the 'Tonight' show seems to have trouble getting a good word."

Besides being irate, Bud is an acute observer and Jingo thanks him for reading his column so carefully.

Just this month Jingo said a good word for the 'Tonight' show. He held out hope that the show would strengthen an already good format by letting Hugh Downs take over to allow more time for the interesting guests.

Bud is right when he says Jingo thinks very little of Jack Paar, but just a few days ago he called him a headliner.

Jingo is a bit disappointed at Bud's choice of words under the circumstances. He says Jingo was "jumping up and down on Jack Paar's back."

With a great deal of restraint Jingo just inferred Paar was a no-talent performer capable of throwing cry baby tantrums. He really wanted to write that he was an unmitigated blatherer who fills the ears of his habit - hypnotized audience with opinionated, uninformed drivel, a dangerous practice in the hands of such an emotional dupe so easily swayed by a play on his recognition-seeking personality.

Jingo also took a dim view of the successful publicity stunt of his tearful exit from the show. You see, Bud, he knew Jack was scheduled to take the 'Tonight' show to England and Paar wouldn't pass that up. The English have a real flare for understanding and enjoying vulgarity.

Bud, don't shed any tears over what is written about your hero. He gets his name spelled right and no performer asked for more.

Peppard Has Long Road To Stardom

Career Nearly Ended With Failure in Film, 'Strange One'

BY BOB THOMAS
AP TV-Movie Writer

Hollywood — If you don't think it takes dogged determination to become a film star, consider the case of George Peppard. George has made it, or so the previewers proclaim. I thought he was a cinch for stardom three years ago when he played a lead in "The Strange One." But the film was such a bomb that it nearly exploded his acting career.

Right from the start, George had no easy time being an actor, he says. The start was in his native Detroit, and he claims that's desert country for anyone interested in the arts.

Detroit Uncultured "Detroit is no place to be an actor," he remarked. "People think you're strange if you give any indication you'd like to act. I got by with doing plays in (Dearborn) high school only because I also was out for the football team.

"Culture has never fared very well in Detroit. There are two legitimate theaters, but not enough patronage to George left Detroit for the marines and later graduated from Purdue in fine arts. He worked in all kinds of jobs around Pittsburgh, and made his stage debut at the Playhouse there. He went on to New York and the Actor's studio, noted spawning ground of stars.

Has Lean Time But the important showcasing in "The Strange One" didn't do it for him. In fact, the sour smell of failure almost shattered his confidence. Produce Sam Spiegel didn't pick up his option.

He reached such a low point that he even applied for a cabbie's license in New York and worked as a mechanic in a motorcycle shop.

His luck changed with TV shows like "Little Moon of St. Alban" and "Suspicion," and the hit play, "The Pleasure of his Company." He did "Pork Chop Hill" with Gregory Peck, then MGM tabbed him to play Robert Mitchum's illegitimate son in "Home From the Hill." The picture makes him a star. He's now doing retakes of "The Subterraneans," playing a beatnik opposite Leslie Caron.

'Ben Hur' Favorite For Academy Awards

Elizabeth Taylor Again Among 5 Nominees for Best Actress Oscar

BY JAMES BACON
AP Movie-TV Writer
Hollywood — The movie's annual Oscar derby was off and running today with Ben Hur's charioteers an odds-on favorite to take most awards come April 4—Academy Awards night.
The $15-million spectacle, MGM's go-for-broke film, got 12 nominations to lead all as the 32nd annual Academy awards nominees were announced Monday night.

"Ben Hur," was nominated for best picture along with "Anatomy of a Murder," "The Diary of Anne Frank," "The Nun's Story" and the English-made "Room at the Top."
"Ben Hur" also won nominations for top actor, direction, supporting actor, art direction, costume design, film editing, cinematography, music score, sound, special effects and screen play.

Actresses of Year

Elizabeth Taylor, whose potent portrayal of the demented young girl in "Suddenly Last Summer," was a screen masterpiece, is favored to win an Oscar on her third nomination in as many years. Other best actress nominees are Doris Day (Pillow Talk); Audrey Hepburn (The Nun's Story); Katharine Hepburn (Suddenly Last Summer); and Jack Lemmon (Some Like It Hot).

Charlton Heston, who played the title role in "Ben Hur," is an early favorite among the top actor nominees. The others are Britisher Laurence Harvey (Room at the Top); James Stewart (Anatomy of a Murder); Paul Muni (Last Angry Man); and Jack Lemmon (Some Like It Hot).

Nominees for the best performance by a supporting actress are Hermione Baddeley (Room at the Top); Susan Kohner (Imitation of Life); and Juanita Moore (Imitation of Life).

Gen. Taylor Describes Meetings, Functions of Joint Staff Chiefs

Leaders Agree On Minor, Not Major Issues

BY GENERAL MAXWELL D. TAYLOR, RET.

The joint chiefs of staff meet regularly at 10 a.m. Wednesday and Friday each week in their suite of offices on the second floor of the Pentagon just inside the river entrance. Their so-called operational deputies meet a half hour in advance to dispose of matters of minor importance, then join the chiefs for the main meeting. These deputies are three-star generals and admirals who have assumed increasing importance in the JCS system.

The conference room is about 28 by 24 feet, with walls painted a particularly disagreeable mustard color. The chiefs seat themselves around a truncated oval table, the chairman, the director of the joint staff, and the air force representatives opposite the army and navy, with the marine corps members at one end of the table and the two military secretaries opposite them. Outsiders may attend by invitation.

The agenda is usually distributed two days in advance. Each chief receives a briefing from his staff a few hours before the meeting. Called the Indians, these briefers exercise a considerable influence on the ultimate position taken by their superiors. Every chief has to be alert to the danger of becoming a prisoner of his Indians, who are generally able and enthusiastic young officers trained to defend their views fearlessly before their superiors.

I was an Indian under General Marshall who taught me that every Indian regardless of rank was entitled to his own opinion on any military matter. The Indians must have ideas and advance them boldly. But they still should not be allowed to take the chief captive.

'Blue Chip' Issues

The volume of business before the joint chiefs is heavy and becoming heavier. Contrary to popular impression that disagreement is common in the Joint Chiefs, my record indicates that 2,954 papers were unanimously agreed upon from Oct. 6, 1955, to March 31, 1959, leaving only 23 in disagreement. The latter, however, represented many of the "blue chip" issues, including:

Should the Army be permitted to have an intermediate range ballistic missile?

What is the best possible composition of the atomic stockpile in types and yields of weapons?

What authority should be given the commander in chief of the North American defense command?

Should a top priority be given to small tactical atomic weapons?

Should the "Basic National Security Policy" be modified to place greater emphasis on the possibility of limited war?

Although charged with submitting to the secretary of defense statements of military requirements to be used in connection with the preparation of the defense budget, the chiefs as a corporate body take no part in the budget's actual formulation.

Don't Make War

Renewed consideration may be given to giving the chiefs a more active role. Without it, there is no discernible way to align military requirements, the military budget and the service programs.

Another thing the chiefs do not do is make or execute operational war plans. These functions usually belong to an overseas unified or specified commander.

Take the case of the landing in Lebanon in July, 1958. The planning and execution were done by Adm. James Holloway in his capacity as task force commander reporting to the JCS. The latter approved his plans and saw to it that he had the forces and supplies needed to carry them out.

The JCS has the strength and weakness of any committee system.

The presence of the active military heads of the services

on this committee makes available the broad experience of the responsible military leaders of the nation.

Compete for Dollars

On the other hand, in settling controversial matters, they must consider and accommodate many divergent views before action can be taken. We argued for months before agreeing over the allocation by service of the important assignments in the joint staff after its reorganization had been authorized by congress in 1958.

Since their civilian superiors often express acute discontent over receiving split papers which they must then decide, the chiefs have often been inclined to sweep controversial issues under the rug. A thorny matter, such as "how much is enough" for the strategic air command and the other atomic deterrent forces, can be and has been side-stepped for years.

Many service conflicts could be adjusted through compromise but for the knowledge of the fixed size of the defense budget. The fact that there is a ceiling around $40 billion is a reminder to each chief that all military programs are competitors for a fixed number of dollars. The fixed defense budget has become the prime cause of the service rivalry which is undermining national confidence in our military programs.

Army Isolated

The point was made earlier that in three and a half years, the Joint Chiefs split formally on only 23 papers.

The breakdown shows how many times the secretary of defense supported the views of the services and the chairman in these 23 splits:

	Supported	Rejected
Army	3	20
Navy	13	10
Marine Corps	4	7
Air Force	17	6
Chairman	18	3

It is apparent the Army has been in an isolated position for four years. Actually, this period should be extended back two more years to cover Gen. Ridgway's tenure as chief of staff.

This isolation gradually diminished somewhat as the navy and marines inclined to the support of the strategy of flexible response. But the point remains, either the army chief of staff has had an unusual gift for choosing the wrong side of the arguments or there has been a steam-rolling of a dissenting view worthy of the best traditions of Tammany hall.

Chairman Wins

Another principal conclusion is that the chairman's side nearly always wins. This is not surprising since he is the personal choice of the secretary of defense. A secretary of defense needs a strong chairman to direct the work of the chiefs and to extract from them timely advice and recommendations—preferably of a kind which can be approved without embarrassment. Thus the chairman has come to be sort of a party whip.

Admiral Radford was an able ruthless partisan, who did his utmost to impose his views upon the chiefs. For the two years I sat with the chiefs under him, I rarely engaged in a serious discussion with my other colleagues. The debate usually became a heated dialogue between the chairman and me in which neither succeeded in persuading the other.

General Twining, as chairman, has been much less a partisan of the official party line than Admiral Radford but, as a long-time advocate of massive retaliation, his decisive vote has always favored the air force and opposed a thorough strategic reappraisal.

Hearings are Problem

It is not an overstatement to say that the chairman has come to assume much of the power of the dreaded single chief of staff who has been a bugbear of congress and some elements of the public in past discussions of defense organi-

Late Cardinal's Will Urges Yugoslavs to Stay Firm in Faith

Vatican City —(U)— Alojzije Cardinal Stepinac, in a spiritual testament released here Monday, urged Roman Catholics of Yugoslavia to remain firm in their faith.

"Only in the Lord," wrote the late archbishop of Zagreb, "is your temporal and eternal happiness. Far from the Lord there is only perdition."

The spiritual testament was released by the Vatican press office without any explanation of how it had been obtained.

It was dated May 28, 1957. Cardinal Stepinac died Feb. 10 at his native village of Krasie, where he had been confined by communist authorities since 1951 after conditional liberation from prison. The Yugoslav cardinal was sentenced to 16 years imprisonment in 1945 for alleged wartime collaboration with nazi Germany.

Plane Tragedy in Which 34 Perished Caused by Bomb

Explosion Occurred Near Seat of Frank, Report Says

BY GEOFFREY GOULD
Washington — Government sleuths say they've pinned down the cause of the North Carolina plane crash that killed 34 persons Jan. 6. It was a dynamite bomb. They say a further bomb, set off by a dry cell battery, exploded near the seat of Julian Frank, a young Westport, Conn., attorney who carried a million dollars in life insurance.

There was a hint that the tragedy might have been the result of a conspiracy by two or more persons. The theory that Frank committed suicide and carried everyone else aboard to death with him had been voiced unofficially before, but some doubt later was expressed that a bomb had caused the crash.

Body on Beach
James R. Durfee, chairman of the civil aeronautics board, told the senate aviation subcommittee yesterday it has now been definitely established that a dynamite bomb caused the wreck. The CAB and the FBI are continuing their investigations, he said. Frank's body was found on

Testifies He Last Saw Girl 12 Hours Before Her Death

Boston — Dutch seafarer Willem van Rie swore today that the last time he saw Lynn Kaufman was around 8 a. m. last Sept. 18, nearly 12 hours before her death.

Testifying for the first time as to his version of the fatal day, Van Rie said the 23-year-old American passenger aboard his Netherlands ship Utrecht came into the lounge about 8 a. m. to deal with immigration officials, who had boarded the ship shortly before upon its arrival in Boston.

Van Rie is accused of beating Miss Kaufman and tossing her body into Boston harbor where it was found the next day.

"Tell the court and jury what if anything you observed about her appearance?" Defense Atty. W. Langdon Powers asked.

"She looked strange," said Van Rie. "I saw Miss Kaufman was a normally lively and gay person, but she did not seem so that day."

From the moment she left the lounge that morning and passed out of sight he never saw her again, Van Rie said.

Asks Support For Proposed Bases in Spain

West Germany's Minister Calls in British, U. S. Envoys

Bonn — Defense Minister Franz Josef Strauss angrily called in the U. S. and British ambassadors today to try to win support for West Germany's plans to set up military supply bases in Spain.

The idea has set off an international hubbub recalling World War II cooperation between Nazi Germany and fascist Spain. Strauss was obviously incensed at the criticism, particularly in the British press.

Officials declined to discuss what was said in the talks Strauss held with Walter C. Dowling, the U. S. ambassador, and Sir Christopher Steel of Britain.

Parts Required
Informants said Dowling told Strauss the United States is neutral on the subject but Washington is concerned about the psychological implications of any future German-Spanish military cooperation.

Strauss reportedly stressed that the new West German army, planned for 12 divisions, is seriously in need of depots for spare parts, hospital equipment, munitions and fuel.

While Strauss was meeting with Dowling, a defense ministry spokesman told a news conference Bonn has no intention of setting up any missile bases in Spain.

In Madrid, the Spanish foreign office insisted negotiations have not taken place. It added that Spain considers existing treaties with the United States and Portugal, both NATO members, sufficient to cover Spain's obligations to western defense.

In London, the British foreign office disclosed that Britain told the West Germans more than a month ago that the British oppose the idea. A foreign office spokesman said the West Germans warned that the plan might disrupt the international atmosphere before the summit conference in May.

Danish Royalty Plans State Visit

Washington — The king and queen of Denmark will pay a state visit to the United States next October.

The White House announced today that King Frederik and Queen Ingrid have accepted an invitation from President Eisenhower to come to this country early in that month.

Exact dates have not yet been worked out.

During their stay, the White House said, the royal couple will officially inaugurate the Danish exhibition "The Arts of Denmark" in New York City.

Record Crowds Greet Ike in Rio de Janeiro

Hearing That He Won a trip to Europe made Oconto Falls grade school Principal Victor Bast, right, excited and happy. Bast will go on a 23-day tour with Post-Crescent Columnist Charlie House, left, who told him about his prize Tuesday at a surprise Oconto Falls High school assembly. Mrs. Bast, center, who knew about her husband's luck before he did, was also there.

Oconto Falls Principal Wins Trip With Charlie House

Oconto Falls — Victor Bast, 38, Oconto Falls Grade School principal, Tuesday was named winner of the 23-day European tour with Columnist Charlie House. The trip contest was sponsored by the Appleton Post-Crescent and Green Bay Press-Gazette.

The balding father of six children was notified before hundreds of Oconto Falls high school students meeting in a special assembly. Bast had been led to believe he was to talk to the group on civil defense.

He is the civil defense director for Oconto Falls.

Surprised to Win
The entry by a former scoutmaster and an active church member was selected from hundreds submitted by readers of the two newspapers in ten counties.

"I knew there were people writing in from all over," he said, "so I really didn't believe I had a very good chance to win."

While the method of judging the contest was precise and organized, the method of notifying the winner had all of the fanfare and suspense of a television situation.

Earlier in the day his wife, Geraldine, was told by telephone that her husband had won. "Just a minute. Let me sit down," she said.

Big Secret Rally
After being assured that the call was legitimate, Mrs. Bast was asked to take part in a big, secret rally at which her husband, totally unknown to him, would be the main feature.

Arrangements were completed with Mr. Robert Weise, the high school principal, for a special assembly at 2:30.

On the pretext that he was to talk on civil defense, Bast was brought from his sixth grade school to the gymnasium. His pupils also were invited.

Weise started what seemed like a regular assembly program and then turned to the occasion of the moment.

President Hopes Money Spent for Arms May be Used for Good of World

BY MAX HARRELSON

Rio de Janeiro — President Eisenhower, grinning broadly, rode triumphantly through Rio de Janeiro today amid the greatest crowds this Brazilian metropolis ever has seen.

A blizzard of confetti and streamers showered down as Eisenhower's motorcade passed down the Avenida Rio Branco, the main business street of Rio, and onto the bay-side drive in sight of famous Sugar Loaf peak.

The U. S. president passed through the jammed streets after a reception where he expressed hope that money now spent on arms can one day be diverted to global attacks on disease, ignorance and poverty.

Police officials declined to estimate the size of the city's turnout, but said there never had been anything like it.

There were repeated choruses of "Eisenhower, Eisenhower." Some also shouted "Ikey, Ikey," giving two syllables to the president's nickname.

Eisenhower sat on the back of a car seat and acknowledged the greetings by holding both hands above his head. Brazilian President Juscelino Kubitschek rode beaming beside him.

At one point student groups leaned from windows to shout "Fidel, Fidel" in honor of their hero, Prime Minister Fidel Castro of Cuba. The crowd on the sidewalk booed and Eisenhower smiled.

The left-wing students had hung a sign across the route saying "Understanding Yes, Submission never." Another sign had in small letters "We like Ike" and in larger letters "Fidel Castro."

Virtually everyone else in Rio seemed ardently pro-Eisenhower. Thousands of small red, white and blue cards rained down from the 20-to-30-story buildings along the tree lined Avenida Rio Branco.

The parade route started at

Urge Increase By Billions in Defense Efforts

Washington — Multi-billion dollar increases in United States defense efforts to meet communist threats were urged today by two members of a panel which made a secret defense survey for President Eisenhower.

Robert C. Sprague, industrialist and banker, told a senate subcommittee studying cold war policy, that in his opinion President Eisenhower has failed to impress the public with the dangers facing the United States.

"One of our basic problems today stems from the failure of most Americans to realize that we have actually been at war with the communists, in their sense of the word, since 1946," Sprague testified.

The Virginian said he has been advised such a measure might bring in $400 million annually in additional revenue.

Pennsylvania R.R. Facing Walkout

Philadelphia — The transport workers union said today it will strike the Pennsylvania railroad because it has been unable to reach agreement on a new contract after eight months of negotiations.

Andrew Kaelin, international vice president of the TWU in charge of the railroad division, said presidents of PRR locals will meet here tomorrow and Friday "to organize the machinery for a systemwide strike."

Negroes, Whites Fight In Tennessee Store

Chattanooga, Tenn. — Negro and white youths battled in a wild slugfest at a downtown variety store in the late afternoon today.

Police Chief Ed Brown mobilized his entire 250-man force and called in 40 auxiliary officers after what started as a peaceful demonstration exploded into hand-to-hand combat yesterday.

Swarms of Negro and white youths boiled into one of the city's main intersections. Police quelled the melee 30 minutes later and arrested 11 white persons and one Negro.

Brown posted guards at all schools today, Negro and white. Managers of four variety stores, possible trouble spots, agreed to close at 3:30 p. m., daily closing time for schools.

Qualified Charge

Believes GIs May Get Totalitarian Training

Oklahoma City — A also said a subversive influence may have been responsible for an air force manual which said there is Communist infiltration of American churches.

The council's general board, which meets here for two days, is expected to get a report from its policy and strategy subcommittee which heard Wine's resume of the situation yesterday. Afterward, he issued a statement containing his charges.

Wine said there is "the possibility—suggested by an apparent attitude that recurs in various manuals of the U. S. Air Force—that within the military departments of the United States government, there are those who have on occasion attempted to carry out a completely un-American, in fact a totalitarian, indoctrination of their regular and reserve personnel."

In a subsequent interview Wine said the controversial air force reserve training manual could well have been inspired by a subversive influence.

The manual—rescinded last week by the air force—included paragraphs charging communist infiltration of churches; communist party membership by some ministers; and communist front influence on a subcommittee of the National Council which drew up the revised Standard version of the Bible.

Wine would not label the material either Communist or fascist-inspired, but said, "I would say it is definitely subversive."
